Breaks silence

Fulle will resign party leader post

by WANDALYN RICE

Cook County Republican Party Chairman Floyd Fulle announced Friday night he will resign his post as party leader as soon as the party Central Committee elects his successor.

Fulle, breaking a silence he has maintained since he was convicted of extortion and income tax evasion Oct. 31, told a standing-room-only crowd at Maine Township GOP Headquarters he has called a meeting of the Central Committee for Nov. 24.

"In letters I sent out today to all the committeemen, I have said I will resign as county chairman the moment they elect my successor and that successor must receive a majo vote," he said. "They will get the l ters tomorrow. You are the first to hear."

The Central Committee is made up of all city and suburban committeemen, some of whom have already called for Fulle's resignation.

FULLE ALSO SAID he is considering what to do about his other two jobs — his post as Maine Township committeeman and county commissioner. "I am thinking about those positions. I'm trying to do everything right and systematically."

Fulle's attorneys have contended that he may be able to retain his seat on the county board while appealing the conviction. An opinion from the state's attorney's office has said he will be removed from office when he is sentenced.

Before making his statement, Fulle received a vote of confidence from the Maine Township organization in a unanimous voice vote.

Fulle said his decision to step aside as party leader "is in no way indicative of my guilt or innocence." He added t e felt he should act because t ty is facing an election year "an the only honorable thing in regards to the party is to step aside."

He indicated he had delayed his announcement that he would resign because "until I received the shock on Oct. 31 I had not thought about the things (resignation) that everyone has been speculating about."

FULLE BLAMED his conviction on the fact that the jury was sequestered "and sequestered juries 90 per cent of the time convict." Even so, he said he was confident the jury would find him innocent even after they returned after a few hours deliberation.

"There was no doubt in my mind that the jury was coming out after such a short time with a not quilty verdict across the board," he said.

Fulle said he believed the jury, on the weekend-break in the two-week trial, had discussed the case and "came back a cozy little group. I realized we wouldn't have 12 independent-minded people when they walked into the jury room."

He said he will appeal the verdict after he is sentenced Dec. 9, but added, "On Dec. 9 the judge (U.S. Dist. Judge Bernard Decker) could do all sorts of things. He could throw out the verdict and order a new trial."

Since his conviction, Fulle said he has received notes and letters "from the people. I haven't gotten any from (Ill. Sen.) Charles Percy, Gerald Ford or (State's Attorney) Bernard Carey, but I've gotten them from little people and there isn't one that says I should get out. There isn't one that says 'you're a crook.' It's very heart-rending."

Arlington drivers' test station plans fall through

by JOE SWICKARD

Plans have fallen through for a drivers' testing station at the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center in Arlington Heights.

In September, The Herald learned that representatives of the Illinois Secretary of State's office and Collins, Tuttle and Co. Inc., operators of the shopping center at Golf and Algonquin roads, were negotiating for a store lease.

However, Dick Bruggeman, of the real estate company, Friday said, "There won't be one (testing station) at Surrey Ridge."

Bruggeman said the testing station will not locate in the center because of "just a simple matter of timing."

He said the state did not reach a decision quickly enough on leasing the store. Another leasor, Consolidated Electronics Corp., has been found for the vacant store, he said.

A SPOKESMAN with the Secretary of State's office confirmed Bruggeman's assessment of the situation but said the delay in reaching an accord was unavoidable.

"The State of Illinois is bound by a number of procedural requirements about price, comparisons and documentation. Along the line, they were approached by a commercial leasor and were able to come to terms," the spokesman said.

Bruggeman said the state was offered another store in the shopping center, but it was not acceptable.

"They didn't like the location and apparently it wasn't big enough for what they neded," Bruggeman said.

The state spokesman said plans are still active for locating a testing station in a leased facility in the Northwest suburbs.

"We have to begin anew with the information we have compiled. We are gong back to the files," the spokesman said.

HE SAID THE general area of the search is concentrated around Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows. However, the entire area is under consideration.

The spokesman said a new facility for the area should be operational by March or April of next year.

"This is not too far off our original timetable although we were looking for an earlier lease," he said.

The facility would be used for written and behind-the-wheel testing of drivers license applicants. License plates, offered at some testing stations, would not be sold at the local facility.

Residents, he said, have found it as convenient to purchase the plates at banks or currency exchanges.

WHEN WORD of the possible Surrey Ridge location for the testing station ws announced, it was greeted with a cool reception from local merchants and some area residents.

The opposition from the merchants focused on parking problems the station may have created in the shopping center.

Residents said it was unwise to have new drivers try to negotiate the Golf and Algonquin roads intersection with its heavy volume of traffic.

The use of residential streets for testing was also opposed. Residents said it would be a danger to small children living in the nearby Surrey Ridge and Surredy Ridge West subdivisions.

A new testing station for the area has been actively sought since 1970. The Arlington Heights site was the third to be scrapped. Earlier, locations in Palatine Township and in Barrington were considered.

The nearest testing stations are now in Libertyville, Elgin and on Elston Avenue in Chicago.

Joint use pact weighed by city, village parks

The Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights park districts are considering an agreement which would allow residents from both communities to use both districts' facilities.

The proposed agreement would permit residents from one community to use facilities in the other community for in-district rather than out-of-district rates.

Arlington Heights Park Board commissioners will review the proposal Nov. 24 and Rolling Meadows Park Board commissioners are expected to take action on the proposal in December.

RUDY NELSON, superintendent of recreation in Rolling Meadows, said shared use of the two facilities would provide residents of both communities additional services and increased revenue to each district.

He said the proposal is still in its tentative stages and faces a thorough review by both park district boards before their final decision.

"We are very hopeful that the idea will be approved by board members in both communities," Nelson said.

Ronald Dodd, Arlington Heights Park District superintendent of recreation, said the agreement was suggested "because Rolling Meadows doesn't have an indoor pool and we don't have an indoor ice rink."

NELSON SAID residents of Arlington Heights or other communities now pay almost double for admission to the arena.

He added if the agreement is successful it could be expanded to include instructional programs.

Nelson said he sees this agreement as the beginning of a trend to share facilities throughout the northwest suburban area.

The Rolling Meadows Park District already has participated in a similar joint agreement with the Salt Creek Park District in which residents from the districts can register for some programs at in-district rates.

Railroad crossing work starts Monday

Construction on the Walnut-Ridge avenues railroad crossing will begin Monday morning.

Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the work should take about two weeks, although installation of the crossing gates may take longer.

During the construction, traffic lights on Northwest Highway at Ridge Avenue will be placed on flash. Traffic on Northwest Highway will have a flashing yellow light, while traffic on Walnut Avenue will have the flashing red light.

TEACHER OF THE YEAR Julia Walsh confers with 9-year-old student Kelly McArthur. "The most important thing is that children feel good about themselves," she said.

'Humanistic' approach best says top teacher

by KATHERINE BOYCE

"The most important thing is that children feel good about themselves," said Julia Walsh, Illinois Teacher of the Year.

Mrs. Walsh, a teacher at Olive School, Arlington Heights, was named Teacher of the Year Friday by the Illinois Office of Education. She received the award during a banquet at the Forum 30 Hotel, Springfield. Her name will be submitted by the state for the National Teacher of the Year Award.

Mrs. Walsh was one of about 100 Illinois teachers nominated for the award and was the finalist for the North and Northwest suburban region. Last spring the Arlington Heights Teachers' Assn. named her teacher of the year in Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

Mrs. Walsh has taught at Olive School for seven years and she is a former teacher in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15. She has three daughters, one in college, another at Arlington High School and the third at Thomas Junior High School.

Mrs. Walsh's interest in teaching dates back to her childhood.

"I've always wanted to be a teacher," she said in an interview this week. "I used to gather the children in the neighborhood and play school."

Mrs. Walsh attended school in Chicago and she said some unhappy experiences as a student there made her decide "teaching could be more humanistic."

The basis of Mrs. Walsh's teaching is her warm relationship with her students.

"I have respect for them," she said. "Most children are good at something and you can find something to commend them for."

Saturday

She added a word of caution — praise must be genuine. "You have to be honest. Children aren't fools."

The key to bringing out the best in a child is to find what he is interested in and start from there.

"It's a matter of finding what children like to do and letting them do it," she said. The teacher is there to provide guidance.

Mrs. Walsh's classroom is a flurry of activity with the children working individually or in small groups on assignments and projects in an open classroo matmosphere. Her 25 students at Olive, ages 6 through 8, are in a combination first, second and third grade class.

Her individualized method of teaching, designed to meet the needs of each child regardless of grade level, is a far cry from the days when all students sat in neat rows of desks while the teacher lectured before them.

When Mrs. Walsh first began teaching she said she was "a very traditional teacher and I gained a lot of knowledge that way." But she added, "I don't think I could go back to teaching the other way."

In a traditional classroom "I thought I knew what the children were doing and how they learned but I didn't see it. When you stand in front of the class you really don't see that happening as often."

In the classroom structure today at Olive she said she has a much better perception of the progress her students are making.

Discipline in the classroom is a matter of allowing the student to discipline himself, Mrs. Walsh said. The trick is to let "children be themselves. It's against their nature to expect them to sit still for five hours a day. If you let them make choices, they make good choices."

Studded tires' last hurrah begins today

by LEA TONKIN

Today is the first day of the studded snow tire's last stand in Illinois.

Studded tires, sold as road-gripping, fast-braking boon to motorists driving on slippery roads, will be banned on Illinois highways following the Nov. 15 through March 31 season. For the driver who depends on extra traction provided by the studs, tire dealers suggest substitutes ranging from soft rubber tires to plastic chains.

The new state law calling for a ban on studded snow tires is based on a U.S. Dept. of Transportation report, said Bob Heck, a spokesman for the Chicago Motor Club. "Formerly, it was widely believed that the safety factor associated with studded snow tires outweighed possible damage to pavements," Heck said. "However, a recent study completed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration made a 180-degree turn in the matter.

"THE STUDY purported to show that studded snow tires were not as valuable a safety tool as originally believed, and they do contribute to damage of pavements. As a result of the study, the U.S. Dept. of Transportation is asking states to ban the use of studded snow tires," Heck said.

Arlington driver testing site nixed

Plans for a drivers' testing station at the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center, Arlington Heights, have fallen through. Dick Bruggeman of Collins, Tuttle and Co. Inc., operators of the shopping center, said Friday the state failed to reach a decision quickly enough on leasing space in the shopping center. He called the situation "just a simple matter of timing." A spokesman for the Secretary of State's office said a driver testing location is still being eyed in the area of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Schaumburg and Rolling Meadows. A new testing station could be opened by spring, the spokesman said.

Bike accident victim dies

A 13-year-old Schaumburg youth died Friday afternoon in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, from injuries he suffered when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a van last week. Dead is Richard C. Miller, 1826 Carlisle Ct., who had been hospitalized since the accident Nov. 8. Police said the accident occurred while the Miller youth was riding his bicycle along a median strip on Golf Road near Valley Lake Drive. The driver of the van, Martin Huska, 50, of Hoffman Estates, was not injured, police said.

Police network to start soon

A regional police communications network involving Wheeling and 12 other communities could be operational in 10 months, Police Chief M. O. Horcher said Friday. The system, called North Regional Telecommunications Network (NORCOM) is to be supported with an $800,000 federal grant. Joining Wheeling in the system will be police departments in Glencoe, Glenview, Golf, Kenilworth, Lincolnwood, Morton Grove, Niles, Northbrook, Northfitld, Skokie, Wilmette and Winnetka.

Arlington water supplies low

The Village of Arlington Heights faces a water supply crisis that could immediately affect residents through higher water bills and strictly enforced conservation measures. A comprehensive water system report prepared by the village concludes that the village and surrounding communitits are pumping out water faster than it is being replenished. The only immediate solution to the problem is to draw water from Lake Michigan, the report says. Arlington Heights has already pledged to work with the villages of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village to obtain Lake Michigan water.

Howlett to run for state's top job if Dixon bows out

by STEVE BROWN

Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett told The Herald Friday he would give serious consideration to a request from state and county Democratic Party officials to run for governor.

Howlett's remarks represented a sharp reversal of an earlier position. He previously had said he would seek reelection only for his present post.

Howlett qualified his remarks only by saying he would not run for governor as long as State Treasurer Alan Dixon remained in the gubernatorial race.

Immediately after Howlett was interviewed by The Herald, following a speech to students at Maine South High School, Park Ridge, he went to a private meeting with Dixon in Chicago.

DIXON AIDES said they knew of no plans by their candidate to withdraw from the race, but Howlett's comment and the sudden meeting between the two powerful Democrats indicated a major shake-up in the regular Democrat's candidate for the state's top post is in the offing.

Howlett had been urged by Mayor Richard J. Daley and party leaders to run against Gov. Daniel Walker in the March primary.

Howlett resisted the pressure and as late as Tuesday during a major fund-raising dinner for him had indicated he planned to run for secretry of state next year.

During a question and answer session at the high school Friday, Howlett predicted Walker would not be the party's candidate for governor after the March primary. He also said if Dixon decided not to run for governor he would make an excellent candidate for lieutenant governor.

The latest developments seem to indicate that party officials will be able to slate Howlett for the governor's race and possibly convince Dixon to run for the number two position.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS also believe attempts will be made to convince Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan to make a bid to oust State's Atty. Bernard Carey from his post next year.

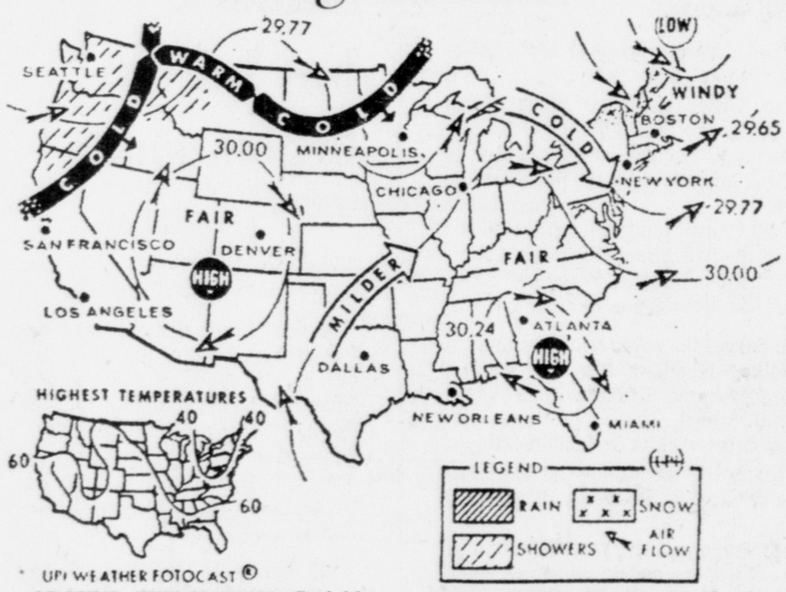

Other spots on the ticket could be occupied by Michael Bakalis, former superintendent of public instruction, State Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, and a number of women candidates including Chicago Commissioner of Consumer Affairs Jane Byrne and Metropolitan Sanitary District Trustee Joanne Alter.

Political observers have noted that Howlett probably would be the best candidate the regular Democrats could find to run against Walker who has consistently spurned the Daley organization.

It was noted recently that Howlett outpolled his Republican opponent for secretary of state, Edmund Kucharski, in his own home township, Northfield, in 1972.

Ford testifies: no 'click' heard from 'Squeaky's' gun

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — President Ford said in unprecedented videotape testimony played Friday at the trial of Lynette Fromme that he had "no recollection" of hearing a "click" from a .45-caliber pistol the Manson cultist thrust at him.

It was the first time that an incumbent President's spoken testimony was reproduced in a criminal trial by videotape. The tape was made Nov. 1 in Washington.

"I saw a hand come through the first row and in that hand was a weapon," Ford said of the Sept. 5 alleged assassination attempt. The hand was "about two feet away," he said.

About 150 persons jammed the courtroom to witness the 19-minute, color videotape. Ford, the first defense witness, chose his words carefully as he answered 36 questions from Miss Fromme's defense attorney.

U.S. Attorney Dwayne Keyes did not cross examine the President.

Ford said he could not see if Miss Fromme's finger was on the trigger or whether she made any motion to cock the weapon or pull the trigger.

After the videotape was shown, the trial recessed until Monday, when the defense was to make its opening statement.

The President said he looked down at the pistol "at the height of between my knee and my waist approximately. I simply saw the hand with the gun in it and the gun covered most of the hand."

"Almost instantaneously with my seeing the gun, the Secret Service agent grabbed her hand and the gun. I couldn't judge how long a time it might have been pointed at me."

Under questioning by defense attorney John E. Virga, the President said, "I have no recollection of it clicking or not clicking."

Virga asked, "Did you hear any noise from the gun at any time that you can recall?"

"Not that I can recall," Ford answered.

Whether Miss Fromme, a slavish disciple of mass murderer Charles Manson, actually attempted to fire the .45-caliber pistol and her intent are at issues in the trial.

Prosecution witnesses have given conflicting testimony over whether a click was heard before, during or after the gun was being wrested from her.

Ford said he first noticed a woman in a brightly colored dress when he was about half way between the Senator Hotel and the state Capitol.

"It was my first impression she wanted to come closer," Ford said. "It appeared to me she wanted to shake hands or speak or at least get closer to me."

Ford, wearing a dark suit, was shown sitting near a blue curtain with his hands cupped on a table in front of him. Occasionally he gestured.

Most of the President's videotaped testimony duplicated what he said in a written statement filed in court earlier.

A FLOCK OF BIRDS flutters over Tokyo International Airport as jetliner takes off. Japanese hunters soon will be given the OK to shoot 4,000 birds nesting at the airport because they are a menace to air traffic. A jumbo jet bound for Europe from Kennedy Airport, N.Y., on Tuesday hit some seagulls on the runway during takeoff, causing destruction of the aircraft.

President linked to Gulf Oil's illegal funds tap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over the past decade, former Gulf Oil officials tapped an illegal fund for $400,000 a year for gifts to politicians, including then-Rep. Gerald R. Ford and three current candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, court records showed Friday.

The contributions were made to Ford, Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex.; and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, according to a sworn statement filed in U.S. District Court.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen reported President Ford "never knowingly" took money from Gulf.

Nessen said Congress, in checking Ford when he was nominated to be Vice President in 1973, looked at all of his 1972 contributions and their sources. They found "No problems."

The record also said the payments included $5,000 each spring and fall "for many years" to Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania "for a personal matter or for some office matters — never in connection with political contribution matters."

The record is a sworn statement of Thomas D. Wright, a Pittsburgh lawyer whose firm is retained by Gulf. Wright said he got the information from August through December, 1973 from former Gulf vice president Claude Wild Jr.

The Wright deposition was taken for a Securities and Exchange Commission case against Wild in connection with Gulf's alleged $10.3 million corporate slush fund which was used about equally for payments to U.S. politicians and foreign government officials since 1960. Corporate contributions to politicians are illegal.

Wright made similar statements before a federal grand jury in Washington which is hearing criminal evidence involving Gulf that is being presented by the Watergate special prosecutor, the record said.

In a statement, Scott said "all funds received by me from any person were given with assurance that they represented the contributions of individuals . . . no corporate funds were so received to my knowledge.

"These contributions were either committed to my own campaign or distributed to further the campaigns of others."

Wright said Ford received $2,000 in 1972, Jackson $10,000 in 1972, Bentsen $2,000 in 1970 when he was elected to the Senate, and Shapp an undetermined amount about the time of his first gubernatorial campaign.

Wright also said $25,000 was contributed to the 1968 presidential campaign of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and $50,000 to the late Lyndon B. Johnson shortly after he was elected vice president in 1960.

Wright said Gulf did not contribute to the 1972 presidential campaigns of Humphrey or Sens. George McGovern, D-S. C., and Edmund Muskie, D-Maine.

Wright also cleared up earlier reports about a $5,000 contribution in 1972 to Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. Wright said the money came from a legal Gulf fund collected from employes. But Wright said through faulty bookkeeping, the legal contribution was not entered properly.

A three-judge federal appeals panel in St. Louis Friday ruled the Agriculture Department can proceed with new meat grading standards which consumer groups had argued would result in Americans paying higher prices for inferior beef. Consumer groups contend some beef currently graded "good" will be upgraded to "choice" under the new standards, making the meat cost more despite the fact there will be no increase in production costs.

House committee cites Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Intelligence Committee Friday approved three contempt of Congress resolutions against Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for disobeying subpoenas of intelligence records and secret assessments of Soviet nuclear policy.

Trying to head off the unprecedented action, President Ford invoked executive privilege to protect both Kissinger and the subpoenaed materials in at least one area — raising the prospect of another legal battle over the boundaries of executive privilege.

The State Department said no secretary of state has ever been cited for contempt of Congress.

The contempt resolutions now go to the House Rules Committee, and if approved there, to the full House. House approval would send the matter to the Justice Department for action, including a possible grand jury investigation.

But Ford could complicate and possibly derail the proceedings with his executive privilege retort.

Committee chairman Otis Pike, D-N.Y., said the panel had exhausted all other means of getting the materials from Kissinger and time was running out on its mandate to investigate intelligence policies and operations.

The panel approved three contempt resolutions presented by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif. Each accuses Kissinger of "contumacious conduct" and disobedience — for having:

• Refused, as secretary of state, to produce documents disclosing state department recommendations for covert intelligence operations. The vote was 10 to 2.

• Failed, as the President's national security adviser, to furnish all National Security Council documents assessing Soviet adherence to strategic arms limitation agreements. The vote was 10 to 1.

• Disobeyed, as national security adviser, a request for records of all decisions on covert intelligence activities made by various supervisory White House committees since Jan. 20, 1965. The vote was 10 to 2.

Speaking in Atlanta, Ford said that Attorney General Edward Levi advised him to invoke executive privilege in refusing to turn over 10 years worth of intelligence documents to the House Intelligence Committee.

Franco undergoes surgery —machines keep him alive

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco underwent his third emergency surgery in 11 days Friday, a two-hour operation to repair a ruptured and bleeding stomach. He emerged in the gravest condition of his 28-day medical crisis.

The surgery "was acceptably tolerated," a post-operative communique said. "The prognosis is the gravest."

Three hours later, Franco, 82, was said to be resting under sedation, a new tube protruding from his abdomen to drain off blood and fluid from the rupture of stomach stitches from the previous operation, one week ago The operation required more than eight pints of transfusions.

His 32 doctors gave no sign of giving up on the effort to save the Spanish strongman of 36 years.

They declared even before the latest emergency that his brain was still functioning but his body needed a respirator, a kidney machine, a heart-support unit, a blood-pumping aid and an array of tubes to keep it going.

It was the seventh major crisis of Franco's struggle for life. Already he has had three major heart attacks, two operations, kidney failure, pneumonia and a plethora of other serious complications.

The futility of Franco's struggle was underscored in an afternoon medical bulletin saying the machines could detect brainwaves, showing the brain was still alive but that his body required machines to function.

Sasquatch sighted by reservation policeman

• Police Sgt. Ken Cooper of the Lummi Indian reservation in Bellingham, Wash. said he sighted a giant hairy creature which ripped a storm door from its hinges. Cooper said he saw the creature — called "Sasquatch" by others — from a distance of about 35 feet on Oct. 23. He said it was about 7½ feet tall. Cooper described the creature us having "no neck, very big and muscular with blackish colored, very short hair. The face had a leathery, wrinkled look. Cooper said tracks on the reservation indicated three creatures of different size have been roaming the area.

• Florida drugstore millionaire Jack Eckerd won Senate confirmation Friday to head the General Services Administration, the government's building and services agency. Eckerd, approved routinely by voice vote, will replace Arthur Sampson who resigned.

• Singer Patti Page, angry over a National Star newspaper article which said she "won a battle with the bottle," Thursday filed a $5 million libel suit against the publication. In papers filed in federal court in New York, Miss Page said she "is not and never has been an alcoholic."

• About 40 black students halted a lecture at the University of Kansas by Yale professor William Shockley, who believes blacks are genetically inferior in intelligence to whites. The blacks shouted "black, brown, yellow, white, all the people must unite."

Ras Sudar in U.N. control

RAS SUDAR, U.N. Demilitarized Zone, Sinai Desert (UPI) — Israel Friday pulled out its last soldiers from this dusty town on the Gulf of Suez and turned the Ras Sudar oil field and a slice of desert around it to the United Nations for transfer to Egyptian control.

At 11:59 a.m. an Israeli officer called 30 U.N. and Israeli soldiers to attention on the road outside the pink stone headquarters building.

A bearded private wearing green fatigues and sunglasses climbed on the roof and hauled down the flag of Israel.

Then an Indonesian Colonel wearing the blue cap of the U.N. Emergency Force put up a United Nations flag.

They saluted, and the ceremony was over.

It was Israel's first actual withdrawal under the interim agreement signed with Cairo Sept. 4. Egyptian civilians will take over Sunday.

The oil facilities were turned over to American technicians Oct. 10 to prepare for the Egyptian takeover.

"I do hope our joint efforts here will be a step toward peace in the Middle East," said Swedish Maj. Bengt Liljestrand, commander of U.N. forces in the Sinai.

He said the U.N. force would be checking roads, harbors and airstrips to be sure Egypt honored its commitment to keep the area under civilian control, with no military presence.

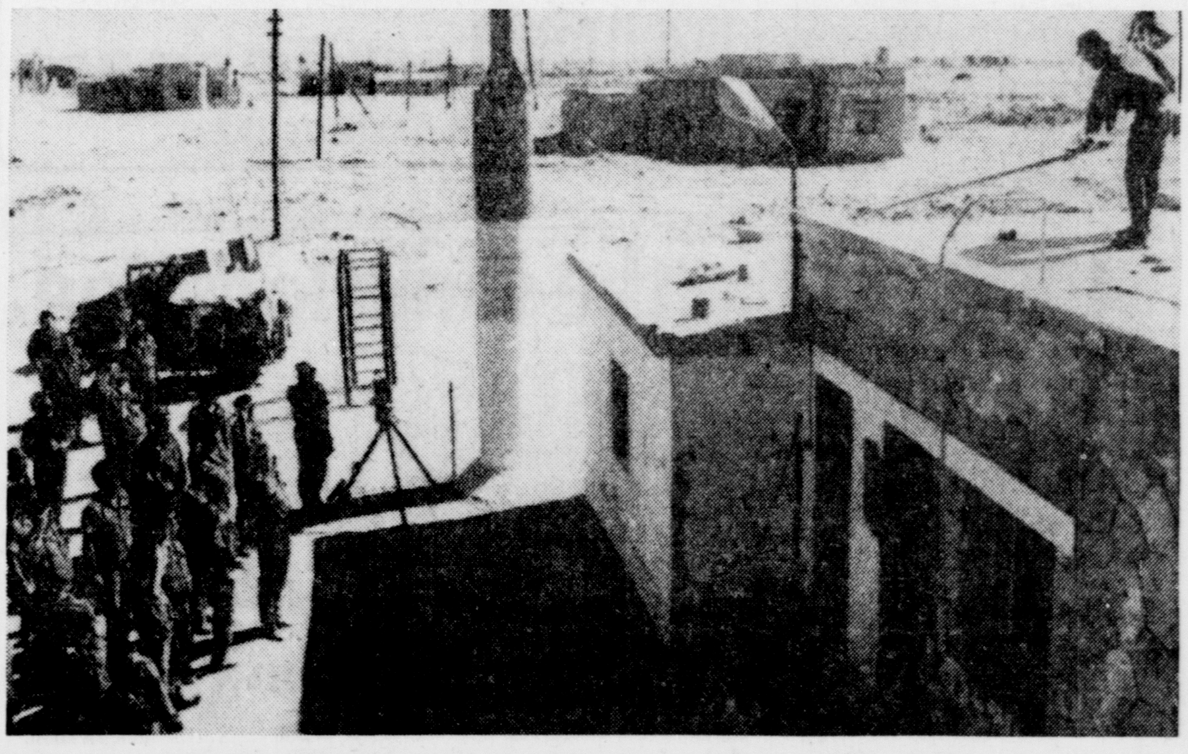

Liljestrand said the Israelis left the town in good shape after eight years of occupation, since the war of June, 1967. Israel troops will move to a ridge six miles away to set up their new line.

In the interim agreement Israel promised to withdraw from 2,000 square miles of Sinai Desert by Feb. 22, 1976. The richer Abu Rudeis oil field further south will go back to Egypt at the end of the month.

In Jerusalem, Israeli government leaders blamed pro-Palestinian U.N. resolutions for the Arab guerrilla bomb attack Thursday that killed six teenagers and wounded 42 others in Zion Square.

The three boys and three girls killed in the blast were buried in simple ceremonies. Al Fatah, an Arab guerrilla organization has claimed responsibility for the bombing.

Police Minister Shlomo Hillel said, "I cannot but hold the United Nations as responsible for this act by giving encouragement to the terrorist organizations."

Rocky backs Ford in speech here

by STEVE BROWN

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller Friday said President Gerald R. Ford's recent cabinet shakeups show the President has "a firm hand on the tiller of government."

Rockefeller, however, predicted that George Bush, who has been nominated as director of the Central Intelligence Agency, may have put his political career in jeopardy.

Rockefeller's comments came at a news conference before a testimonial dinner for U.S. Rep. Robert McClory, R-13th, at the Marriott Lincolnshire Motel, Lincolnshire.

THE VICE PRESIDENT also refused to rule out the possibility that he may be a candidate for President in 1976. While Rockefeller repeatedly insisted Ford was his candidate next year, he said "that I have learned to rule out flat statements about my own future."

Rockefeller also said he believed Ford will be the nominee of the Republican Party in 1976.

Some political observers have suggested that Rockefeller's announcement that he would not be Ford's running mate next year was an indication he may be eyeing a run for the Presidency himself.

Rockefeller refused to speculate on what would happen if former California Gov. Ronald Reagan became the GOP Prssidential nominee.

In commenting on the nomination of Bush as CIA director, Rockefeller said Bush may have hurt any future chance for political office.

HE INDICATED that recent disclosures about the CIA involving domestic intelligence activities and plots to overthrow foreign government leaders make that position a very sensitive job.

Rockefeller also said Ford is beginning to feel New York City is ready to take the "very tough steps necessary to solve its financial crisis."

Rockefeller hinted that the President may be close to giving approval to a federal program to assist New York with its financial problems.

In commenting about a possible Republican showdown between Reagan and Ford, Rockefeller said that Ford would win. He also indicated he would be willing to campaign for Republican candidates throughout the country next year.

IN HIS SPEECH before about 1,000 persons, Rockefeller praised McClory, who was Rockefeller's classmate at Dartmouth in the 30's.

Rockefeller also remarked that McClory, who has been in Congress for 13 years, played a key role in Congressional approval of the 25th amendment, which allows for appointment of vice presidents. The Vice President said McClory also was important in his own confirmation hearings.

Rockefeller's stop in Lake County was part of a two-day swing through the Midwest. Rockefeller had addressed a Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City earlier Friday and planned to fly on to Minneapolis for another speechmaking commitment.

Chicagoan nominated for RTA board job

Patrick L. O'Malley 62, of Chicago, was nominated Friday by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley to fill a vacancy on the Regional Transportation Authority board.

The vacancy was created last month when Ernest S. Marsh, 72, died.

The Chicago City Council is expected to routinely approve the appointment.

O'Malley is the chairman of the board of Canteen Corp. He served as chairman of the Chicago Plan Commission from 1969 to 1973 and the Chicago Home Rule Commission from 1971 to 1973.

O'Malley is a trustee of Roosevelt University and Mundelein College, and a member of the advisory council for the college of business and administration at the University of Notre Dame. In 1972 he received the Horatio Alger award from the American Schools and Colleges Assn.

200 years at the same location.

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience.

And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?

Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.

Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

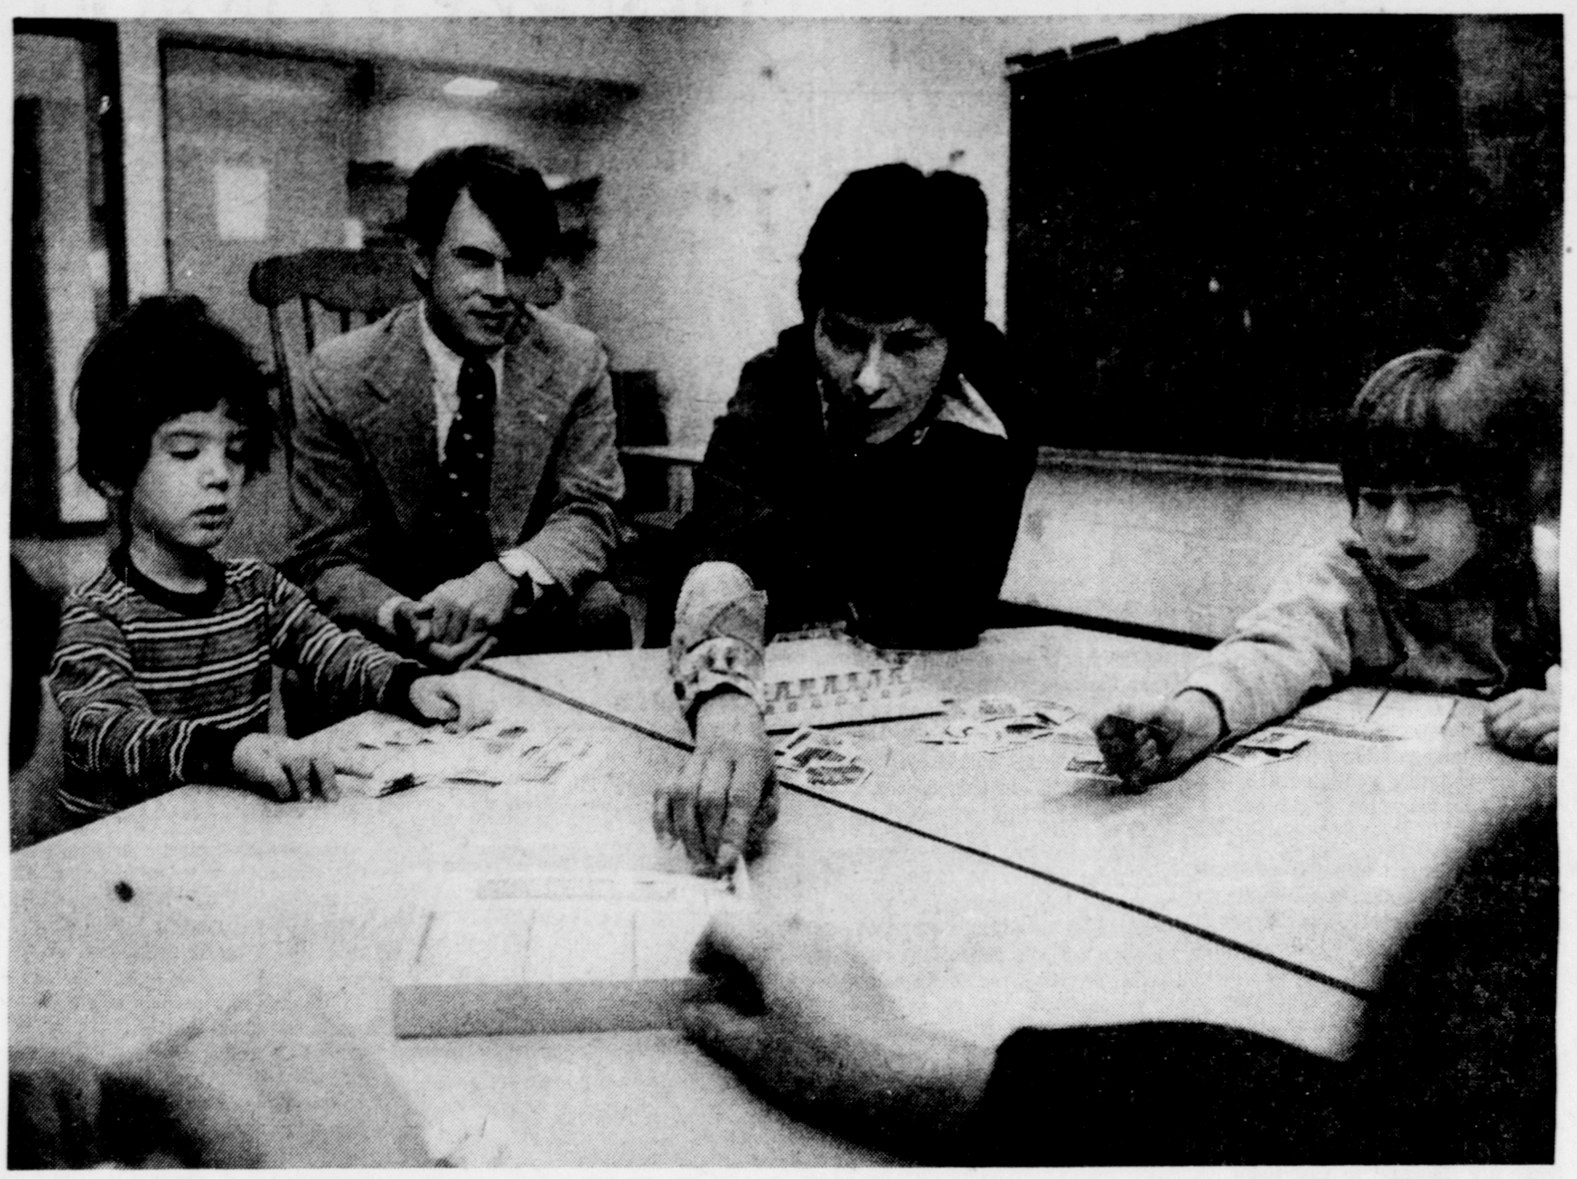

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Interviews for police force spot completed

Interviews to fill a vacancy in the Arlington Heights Police Dept. have been completed and a priority listing of applicants is expected to be released next week.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said the final round of interviews to fill the vacant patrolman's position were concluded Tuesday by Chief L. W. Calderwood and members of the village fire and police commission.

More than 60 persons were interviewed, from the 150 persons seeking the job. Other applicants were ruled out earlier through physical and written testing.

FORD SAID THE final ranking of the applicants should be released early next week. From the listing, Calderwood will have his choice of the top three persons for the department.

If none of the highest ranking three accepts the position, Ford said the chief will then take the applicants in their numerical order.

The eligibility list will be good for two years, Ford said.

Although two other policemen have left the force, Ford said just the one vacancy is being filled now. The other two, Captains Irvin McDougall and Jack Aldrich, will be carried on the village village payroll for several months until accumulated vacation time, unused sick leave and personal business days are paid out, Ford said.

The number of persons applying for the patrolman's position set a record in the village, Ford said.

United Fund passes halfway mark

The Arlington Heights United Fund has passed the halfway mark on its way toward its $76,000 goal.

Local contributions to the charity now stand at $48,000, an increase of more than $13,000 from a week ago.

United Fund Chairman Earl Johnson said increased contributions through payroll deductions and a steady return of residential pledges have put the United Fund "ahead of schedule" so far this year.

The United Fund solicits contributions in five areas — residential, professional, government, education and commerce and industry.

Money collected in Arlington Heights goes to a variety of Northwest suburban organizations, including the Volunteer Service Bureau, Clearbrook Center in Rolling Meadows, Boy and Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, 4-H Clubs and Omni-House: Youth Service Bureau in Wheeling.

A total of $120,000 from the United Fund will be spent in Arlington Heights this year, including money from the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

As an example of the increased contributions through payroll deductions, Northwest Community Hospital employes this year increased their total contribution by 80 per cent, Johnson said.

Persons interested in contributing to the Arlington Heights United Fund should mail their donations to the United Fund, P.O. Box 365, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Special ed override supported

The Illinois State Board of Education has thrown its support to overriding Gov. Daniel Walker's special education funds veto but proposed waiting until spring to restore the rest of the slashed education funds.

Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph M. Cronin said Friday the board has decided to support the override of $35 million in special education funds veto but advocates applying in the spring for funds to restore $81 million in education cuts.

"We realize that asking for the total amount of Walker education cuts now would break the bank, and that's why we're not supporting the entire override," Cronin said.

"We propose to wait until spring and pass supplemental funds assuming that state revenue would go up by then," he said.

THE OVERRIDE bill is now in the Senate which reconvenes Monday. It is not known when the vote will be taken.

The House voted 89-86 last week to restore $81 million in education funds and $35 million in special education funds.

Joseph Cronin

The override of the special education funds veto would reimburse local schools for last year's special education, bilingual education, gifted programs and school transportation.

Cronin said questions Walker raised in a speech televised Thursday afternoon were "damaging."

"THE GOVERNOR asked if anyone believes the quality of education has improved. We've made qualitative breakthroughs in education, especially in special education, with those state dollars and now is not the time to cut back," Cronin said.

"I'm concerned about what programs will have to be dropped," he said. "I think the state should live up to its commitment of last spring to full funding."

Cronin said the veto of special education funds, which have alrady been spent by local school districts, will probably lead to higher property taxes to pay the bill.

In a discussion of other issues, Cronin said the board supports a revision of the state school aid formula which would eliminate the requirement that school districts cut their property tax rates as they are given more state aid.

WALKER VETOED a bill along these lines and the Senate failed to override the veto in a vote last Thursday. A similar bill is still in committee in the Senate. Cronin said the board supports this revision "because some 70 school districts are facing severe restrictions on local resources.

"We're for the rollback relief because frankly the districts need it," Cronin said.

Cronin noted that American Education Week is next week, and said "it seems like a sad note to me that we might begin (that week) with Illinois school districts facing massive retrenchment policies through underfunding of education by the state."

Reading teachers needed: panel

Members of the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 citizens' committee on staffing have strongly urged the hiring of teachers with reading expertise, when vacancies occur, to help meet student needs in reading and language arts.

The committee's report also recommends class sizes of 25 children, early diagnosis of learning disabilities, and in-service training for teachers of reading and language arts.

The committee chose these two subjects as high priorities for pupil success in school.

The report will be studied by the board with their reactions due in the spring.

IN OTHER ACTION, board members asked Business Mgr. James Gochis, to continue a comparative cost study of leasing, contracting and owning school bus service.

GOCHIS PRESENTED a preliminary study which showed that Dist. 21 currently is getting the best deal by contracting for service with Ritzenthaler Bus Lines.

Gochis compared Dist. 21's basic bus costs with those incurred by Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and River Trails Dist. 26, two districts which own and operate their own bus lines. Dist. 15 runs 298 bus routes at a cost of about $16.61 per route, while Dist. 26 runs 27 routes at a cost of contracts for 40 routes, spends about $14.87 per route, Gochis said.

Board members asked Gochis to determine the added costs of buses used by the district for field trips, band trips, special education, and all other special needs.

IN RESPONSE to a letter from a Field School parent Dist. 21 officials have assured parents that every effort is being made to control a problem with head lice at the school, 51 St. Armand Ln., Wheeling.

In a letter to the board, James Poole, representative of the Highland Glenn Homeowners' Assn., said he felt some sort of action should be taken to end the lice problem that has affected nearly 30 students since September.

Poole's letter suggested a thorough check of all pupils, a complete check of school facilities, and a parent information campaign.

District officials said that these actions had been taken. Parents of Field School students had been informed of the problem and were given information on how to combat and treat head lice.

Students are being checked every 10 days for new cases of lice. The last head check, held Nov. 6, turned up 2 new cases and one recurrent case. Another check is scheduled for Monday.

Harper traffic light report soon

Harper College officials will report to board members in December on the feasibility of having a traffic signal installed at one of the campus entrances.

Officials have been trying for several years to have a traffic signal installed at the college's Algonquin Road entrance, but state highway officials say the cost of a signal would have to be paid by the college.

They say a light would be justified at the heavily-traveled campus entrance, but because Harper is a private party it must bear the cost of the light itself, said William Mann, vice president of administrative services.

But now that Euclid Avenue has been extended west to Roselle Road, campus entrances on Euclid and Roselle are being used more heavily. College officials said they want to see if traffic patterns, and thus traffic signal needs, change in the near future.

Mann said the cost of installing a traffic signal, $75,000 to $100,000, was included in the Sept. 27 referendum. But before spending that amount of money, college officials would like to have a professional engineering study done on local traffic patterns to determine the best site of a traffic signal.

Ice boxes come out of oblivion

Collecting
with Grace Carolyn

Chris Dyer, writing in The Antique Trader Annual of Articles (Vol. III), says that the first primitive refrigerator was patented in 1834 by an American, Jacob Perkins, but that ice was used for preservation 'way back in Egyptian history, when clay jars were filled with water and the resulting ice skimmed off the tops for use that day. Assuming freezing weather, of course.

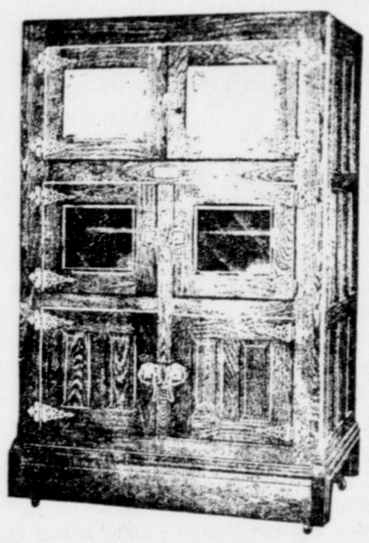

Both Greek and Roman slaves brought snow down from the mountains, packed it into pits and covered it with straw for insulation, to cool the wine of such biggies as Nero. Guess when crushed flavored ice was first used, such as that called "Slurpee" or "Slushie" kids buy at the stands today? Three hundred years ago, down at Ye Olde Slurpee Stand. Make mine orange.

IN AMERICA there was no real ice business until 1800 when someone started cutting the frozen blocks of water from a pond in New York City and shipping it as far south as Charleston, S.C. Well into the 19th century, there were many large storehouses where ice was saved over the winter for hot weather, but the railroad was really responsible for the concept of the "ice box." The first refrigerated railway car built to haul meat and lined with lead, was built in the 1860s, and this led to the same idea for home refrigeration.

Grand Rapids, already known as a furniture center in the late 1800s, turned out such boxes as that shown as the demand increased, and so did many other furniture centers in the Midwest or Eastern states. By the turn of the century oak wood was used almost exclusively, and this is the type one finds in antiques shops today.

Early models were priced from $3 or so to as high as $50 for an elaborate deluxe box, fancifully carved and embellished with lots of trim. Most held between 50 and 125 pounds of ice, which melted at the rate of 25 pounds or so a day.

SO TWICE A WEEK, The Iceman Cometh. He looked up at the kitchen window to see the placard indicating how much ice was needed, then staggered up the back steps with his cold but heavy burden, while kids scrambled after his horse drawn wagon or later, a truck, to beg for chips. This I remember!

There are still many models of old ice boxes in cobwebby corners of cellars and sheds, relegated to oblivion when the electric or gas "Frididaire" made its appearance. The day the electric ice box was brought into the house was Deliverance Day for the wife or child who had to empty the water pan. For no matter when you remembered to look underneath at the pan, it was already too late!

Shop around if you want to buy an antique ice box to use as a bar, planter or what-have-you. Such niceties as brass locks, hinges and handles will cost more than nickel-plated ones. But often the nickel can be stripped to reveal brass underneath. Top loaders seem to be more popular than front loaders, probably because they can be opened to hold and display plants, or even iced drinks for a party. The prices I have noted lately have been in the $150 range for a refinished ice box in good condition.

Catalog fashions

They're chosen for universal appeal

North, East, South, West. . .rural, suburban, metropolitan. Wherever. Women are more aware of fashion now than ever before.

There was a time when catalogs set trends, but now communications are such that fashion information is available immediately and almost everyone is knowledgeable about current styles.

Paris no longer sets the pace although the new collections still stir up attention. And New York no longer is the only market. The big three catalogs — Sears Roebuck and Co., J. C. Penney Co., and Montgomery Ward & Co. — have buying offices at key locations throughout the country to take the pulse of what's happening.

"Everybody now has access to the same things at the same moment. Some are reluctant to pick them up, yet fashion is instantaneous and simultaneous," Virginia Sorem, catalog fashion coordinator of Penney's claimed.

SHE CONTINUED, "What women do with their lives is the real index to the wardrobes they need and the real barometer of fashion. Fashion is not dictated by authorities or names or peers anymore but by needs, living patterns, individuality and personal preference."

Even though catalogs can start a trend because of volume buying, those in the business agree that the pages are conceived to provide something for everybody. Since they are no longer the only liaison with style for people living in outlying rural areas, catalogs just show the best merchandise with the most universal appeal.

Thomas Prytherch, catalog group market manager, and Cindy Coureas, fashion coordinator, misses dresses, from Sears concurred. "There used to be fashion trends by geography more than there are now. Percentages vary a little bit. In the Southwest or in California, the brighter colors sell to a greater degree. But, if an item is a good item, it sells everywhere."

CONSIDERATION is given to areas where there are longer summers or excruciatingly cold winters. When relevant, the inappropriate pages are eliminated in editions going to these areas. But, in general, colors and styles are the same countrywide.

Montgomery Ward's national fashion coordinator Rita Perna was in agreement. "We don't purposely merchandise for the different parts of the country. Climate is the only factor. Montgomery Ward never deletes items for fashion trends, but heavy outerwear might be deleted in some areas."

Buyers for the catalogs are faced with numerous problems, the least of them being that they service the entire nation.

The biggest responsibility is prejudging what the consumer wants and, what's more, predicting it a full year ahead. What will the fashion be? What is good for our market? For the catalog buyer, fashion is evolution not revolution; therefore, they can chart trends.

Miss Coureas said, "It is a constant source of amazement how on target we are — keeping in mind that we cannot carry fringe items. Avant-garde is not where we want to be. Good classic, basic shapes with some looks there for the customer who desires them."

UNANIMOUSLY the big three use top designers to develop and continue their new fashion images, yet they prefer to promote the merchandise without highlighting the personalities.

Miss Sorem admitted, "Recently there has been a new designer link coming into the mass market. Our recent thought is to concentrate on American designers, using another label for their Penney collections."

Cindy Coureas, "We are involved with a group now whose names we will not mention, but the merchandise is going to be part of a collection that is color-keyed to a mix-and-match idea. A dress with a shirt underneath where the shirt can be worn with a skirt and a coat goes over the whole collection."

Miss Perna said that for 12 years they had featured designers but stopped three years ago. Until the Olympic committee appointed Halston in conjunction with Montgomery Ward as the official outfitters, the company worked with designers, utilizing their talents but not capitalizing on their names. "The designer name doesn't give sales. It is the company or store that counts."

AFTER CHOOSING a design, the catalog buyer must shop the fabric market, interpret the fabric into the garment and get involved with the entire creative process. And, all the time he must consider costs. Prices in catalogs are competitive. Every square inch counts and any errors in judgment haunt the company for approximately six months. On the other hand, if a retail buyer makes a similar mistake, he can mark it down and get it out of stock. So, the catalog buyer has more of a challenge and becomes very discerning.

Prytherch added, "Retailing is basically an inefficent distribution system. But we work with the manufacturers. They take less risk in that we work earlier, commit earlier and buy under contract. The industry has big peaks and valleys and we take advantage of going in with orders and producing merchandise when the factories are not busy."

He continued, "One of the advantages that we have in merchandising is that we not only pick the merchandise, but we advertise it, display it and sell it to the customer. And, if we're right the customer reacts to it. In retail, the sweaters are here, the pants there and the shirts, shoes, hats are elsewhere. We take all the items, put them on the mannequin and say to the customer, that's how you wear them. If you put an outfit together well, there will be more customers buying those items than will buy just a shoe."

CONSIDERING the competitive pricing, the universality of the catalogs and the early preparations, it is astonishing that the catalog buyers and coordinators can foretell the trends.

Miss Sorem pointed to the Fall-Winter catalog of Penney, "The unisex look is gone. Earthiness has given way to cleanliness, a natural freshness with better grooming."

This year, all three catalogs accurately predicted the seasons' styles and successfully presented the results. All you have to do for convenient, competitively priced, available and reliable shopping is to let your fingers do the walking — this time through the catalogs.

Newlyweds ride in Model T

Steven Alan Krebsbach and his bride, the former Debrah Lynn Fiocchi, drove off from the church in a Model T Ford to their wedding reception in Highland Park Country Club.

Married Oct. 18 in Immaculate Conception Church, Highland Park, Debrah is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Fiocchi, Highland Park, and Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel V. Krebsbach, Arlington Heights. The couple met while studying at St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn.

Steve, a graduate of St. Viator High School, was graduated from St. Mary's in '74 and is Chicago area representative for Amerock Corp. out of Rockford. Debrah was graduated last May from St. Mary's.

FOR THE 3:30 p.m. double ring service Debrah chose a gown of candlelight peau with Venise lace, and a mantilla headpiece. She carried rhubrum lilies with baby's breath.

Her attendants, her sister, Catharine as maid of honor and Mrs. Elizabeth Conway, Milleville, N. J. as bridesmaid, were in wine color gowns with Venise lace bibs and they carried wine-tipped, cream roses with baby's breath. They also wore wide-brimmed hats.

John Krebsbach, Elk Grove Village, was his brother's best man, and ushers were Michael Harty, Mount Prospect; the groom's brother, Daniel Jr., Glen Ellyn; and the bride's brother, Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven A. Krebsbach

The newlyweds received congratulations from 230 guests at the dinner reception before leaving for a honeymoon in New Orleans. They are making their home in Palatine.

No smoking helps lungs

The doctor says
by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

I was planning on trying to stop smoking. Then the other day someone told me that if you smoked for years that it won't do any good, that it is already too late. She also told me that it takes years to get improvement anyway, even for those who haven't smoked for 26 years already. Is this true? If so, why do you just advise everybody to quit smoking? It seems to me that if it is already to late, you doctors ought to let us puff in peace.

That someone doesn't know what she is talking about. She probably heard about the time it takes to correct the damage to the lungs. That does take a long time, and a heavy smoker can look forward to several years of time before his lungs get back to near normal, if they are able to at all. Even so, many a person with evidence of lung disease gets some benefit soon and gradual improvement over the years.

The picture is entirely different for heart and vascular disease. Statistics show that as soon as you quit smoking, you significantly improve your outlook in avoiding these problems. So, if you want to decrease the chances of having a heart attack or dropping dead suddenly and are a heavy smoker, just quitting will improve your chances 300 per cent at once.

Now, don't pay any attention to whomever is giving you negative input. Go ahead and quit for your own good now. And if you want more information on what tobacco does, send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes. Just write to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Will exercise reduce baggy skin that occurs when middle-aged women reduce? Is there any way to prevent saggy skin on arms and legs of older women, or is that just another senior citizen liability?

Skin tends to lose its natural tight, elasticity as you get older. There are a few things you can do about it.

First, don't overstretch your skin by getting fat. Yo-yo weight control leads to repeated stretching of the skin with repeated episodes of obesity. Finally it simply refuses to snap back and just sags.

Second, maintain your muscle mass. Part of that saggy skin on arms and thighs is from the loss of muscle mass in those areas. How do you prevent this? Do some exercises that put the muscles under load. These can be calisthenics that use arm and leg muscles and your body weight, or if you want to go to an exercise facility, you can even use light weights or machines that do the same thing to help you maintain your youthful musculature.

Third, don't be a sun worshipper. Sun is your skin's worst enemy. Suntan develops to protect your body from harmful sun. Under every suntan is skin damage to those elastic fibers and other structures. Note that your skin looks much younger on the parts of the body protected from sun and wind — in some people these days it is hard to find such an area for comparison.

Fourth, to protect your face from crow's feet and facial wrinkling that will make you look 10 years older, do not smoke.

U of I graduates married Oct. 18

Diana Smith and Steven P. Schmid met in Steven's fraternity house at the University of Illinois where Diana had been named as the fraternity's "little sister." Both have since earned degrees from the U of I and are employed in Des Plaines.

Daughter of the Robert B. Smiths, Bloomington, Diana and Steven, son of the Robert H. Schmids, Mount Prospect, were married Oct. 18 in Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Bloomington. The bride's sister, Terri, Belvidere, was maid of honor, and the groom's sister, Susan, was bridesmaid. Both wore orange jersey gowns and carried nosegays of gold and orange mums with cattails, wheat and dried leaves.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven R. Schmid

DIANA'S GOWN was of de-lustered crepe trimmed in Venise lace. A matching lace headpiece held her lace-edged elbow-length veil, and she carried yellow, bronze and butterscotch daisies with white roses and baby's breath. Cindy Cramer, 4-year-old cousin of the bride from California, was flower girl wearing a white lace dress over hooped skirt. She carried a white basket with rose petals.

Best man was Ray Kielhack of Chicago, and ushers were Tom Remec, Newark, Del., and the bride's brother, Bob.

THE 4 P.M. DOUBLE RING service was followed by a buffet reception in a Bloomington high school cafeteria after which the newlyweds honeymooned five days at French Lick, Ind.

They are now at home in Mount Prospect. Steven, also a graduate of Forest View High, is with United Oil Products, and Diana is with ITT Telecommunications.

Altenburg-Berkheimer

Robin S. Altenburg's engagement to William G. Berkheimer is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Altenburg, Mount Prospect. Robin and William, son of the William H. Berkheimers, Rockford, will be married in June '76.

A '73 graduate of Forest View High, Robin will graduate next May from Swedish-American School of Nursing, Rockford. Her fiance is an apprentice operating engineer with Belvidere Construction, Belvidere, Ill.

Petersen-Walsh

The engagement of an Arlington Heights couple, Janell Marie Petersen and John K. Walsh, is announced by Janell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Petersen. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Walsh. No wedding date has been set.

Both young people are '71 graduates of Arlington High. Janell graduated in '73 from Harper College, studied at Eastern Illinois University and is now employed by Mount Prospect State Bank. Her fiance is still studying at Eastern and will graduate next May.

Pospisil-Baroska

The engagement of Linda Marie Pospisil to Joseph Michael Baroska of Palatine is announced by her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry F. Pospisil of Northbrook. A February wedding is planned.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Linda is an elementary teacher in Northbrook. Joseph, a graduate of Palatine High, studied at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, and is manager of the business office for Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg.

Underwood-Matthew

A February '76 wedding is planned by Cheryl L. Underwood and John J. Matthew. The couple's engagement is announced by Cheryl's mother, Mrs. Jackie Santuro of South Bend, Ind. Cheryl is also the daughter of the late Charles S. Underwood. Parents of John are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Matthew of Palatine.

Cheryl graduated from the John Adams School in South Bend, and her fiance is a '75 graduate of the University of Notre Dame.

Piano player should face into room

The homeline
by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Ever since we moved into our house 14 years ago, I've had a passion for a grand piano. That's out of the question with a long living room that's a bit narrow, so we've finally decided to get a baby grand. That out of the way, my husband and I are now arguing some about where it should go in the room. Can you help settle this?—Amanda Jenner

One thing I try to wriggle away from is giving interior decorating advice. Another no-no is never to get into family arguments. Your letter reminded me of a 20-year running debate on the same issue with the professor here.

I won because the experts agree that in most cases the long side of the piano should be placed along a wall so that the person at the keyboard faces the room. Some people use the arc on the curved side in which to place a proper-size chair. A big plus in your case is that it will square off your narrow room.

Dear Dorothy: A group of us are planning an exotic going-away party for some dear friends. One thing I want to do is have a punch bowl with dry ice which gives off lovely steam. That always gets me. One of my group thinks it might be dangerous. Hotels do it all the time. She's wrong, isn't she?—H.G.W.

Dry ice is great, but I wouldn't use it myself in a punch bowl — not because it's poisonous, or anything like that, but simply because if a tiny piece broke off and someone happened to swallow it, it could cause awful damage.

Dear Dorothy: Is there anything to this chatter that coffee stays fresher longer when kept in the refrigerator?—Myrna Beecham

Yes, indeed.

Dear Dorothy: This probably sounds dumb, but I don't understand all the advice to have foods "tightly covered with moisture vapor-proof wrapping" when they are frozen. It's expensive stuff and I can't help but wonder if it isn't a commercial piece of nonessential puffery.—M.C.K.

Cold air is dry air and dry air draws out the moisture in foods and brings on "freezer burn." It means loss of flavor, texture and color. It's cheaper to wrap properly than have to throw food away.

Dear Dorothy: I want to redo a down comforter which is covered with old taffeta. I would put the feathers in a muslin case, then cover it with some decorative fabric. What I'd like to know is how to get the down out without having a room full of feathers. Would you or one of your readers know how this is done?—Sally Hinshaw

This one is beyond me. Hope a reader can help, Sally.

Family crisis workshop set in Schaumburg

Families frequently face emergency or crisis situations as part of day-to-day living when stress becomes overwhelming. Often an individual or family realizes after a crisis what actually should have been done.

Effects of crises and ways to manage them will be the subject discussed at a "Family Crises" workshop Monday at the Schaumburg Public Library, 32 W. Library Ln., from 9:30 a.m. until noon.

The workshop is open to the public at no charge and is sponsored by Suburban Cook County Home Economics Program Council in conjunction with the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

Mrs. Beatrice Bagby, family life specialist on the University of Illinois Extension staff, will present the program. Reservations 991-1160.

KIDS' KORNER
by MARILYN HALLMAN

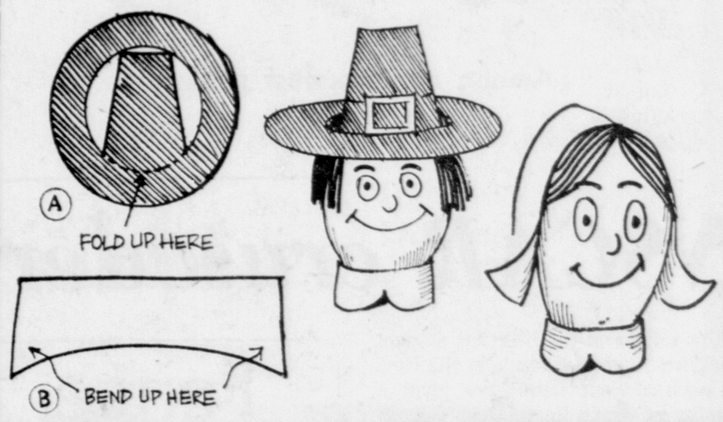

MORE GOOD EGGS

To make these Pilgrim eggs for Thanksgiving, blow out eggs. (See last week's Kids' Korner for directions.) Make a stand for each egg by gluing a 1-inch by 5-inch piece of white construction paper into a circle. Notch the bottom to form a collar.

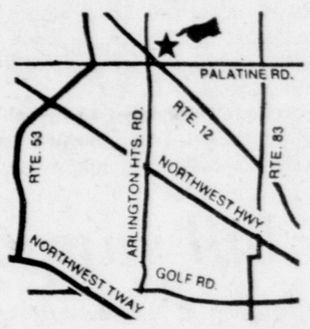

To make Pilgrim man's hat: Cut a 3-inch circle of black paper. Draw a 1½-inch circle in the center and cut out, leaving a piece for hat crown (figure A). Bend crown up. Glue on a paper buckle.

To make Pilgrim lady's hat: Cut a 1½-inch by 5-inch piece of white paper. Cut a shallow arc out of one long side. This edge will be the front edge. Bend the front corners up (figure B). Glue hat to the head.

Make hair: Glue on yarn or crepe paper hair or paint hair on with tempera paint, felt-tipped marker or shoe polish and a cotton swab. Draw face with paint or markers.

Age ends a remarkable career

With the resignation of William O. Douglas from the U.S. Supreme Court, a towering spokesman for the plight of the "diminished man" has departed.

In 36 years and seven months on the court — he served longer than any other justice — Douglas compiled a record of judicial achievement and courage that will be both praised and debated as long as this nation exists.

A man who holds outspoken views on civil liberties, Douglas was long regarded as a keystone in the liberal "Warren court." With his writings and his legal arguments, Douglas became a vital part of the events which produced substantial changes in this nation's social and political history.

Despite his outspoken stands on freedom of speech, obscenity and civil rights, Douglas spoke most forcefully to the problems facing each of us in an increasingly technocratic society.

In his book, "Points of Rebellion," Douglas spoke for the "diminished man," the modern man diminished by technology and by the technocrats who believe in machines. He saw dissent as the only solution:

"The experts have so multiplied that a man has a new sense of impotence; man is, indeed, about to be delivered over to them. Man is about to be an automaton; he is identifiable only in the computer. As a person of worth and creativity, as a being with infinite potential, he retreats and battles the forces that make him inhuman."

In short, Douglas was not a rubber-stamp political liberal. This complex man challenged government, and in his own words: "The Constitution was designed to take government off the backs of people and make it difficult for government to do anything to the individual."

When Douglas joined the Court in 1939, he was already recognized as a legal authority. But in the late 1950s and 1960s, he frequently stood with the late Hugo L. Black. As these two men stood for the rights of the "diminished man," they reminded legal observers of two earlier justices, Louis D. Brandeis and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Now, this passionate advocate of the rights of the common man has stepped down, a victim of forces over which no person has control. But the record of this man, whom Chief Justice Burger described simply as "a believer in our country," will not soon fade from the land and the court which he served so well.

NSCAR crusader gives his views

letters to the editor

The article on the National Student Coalition Against Racism in the Nov. 11 issue of your newspaper gives a number of wrong impressions regarding NSCAR. I therefore feel obligated to write this letter. Unfortunately, it will be a long one because your article was so far off the mark. Nevertheless, believe you should print this letter in its entirety in all the editions of The Herald in which the Nov. 11 article appeared, since it has created the need for a lengthy reply.

First of all, on the status of NSCAR in the Northwest suburbs. I am hardly the "lonely crusader" your article makes me out to be. The people who make up NSCAR are not altruistic crusaders but ordinary men and women who are fed up with the racist nature of our society (a mood which is common among students as has been shown by the phenomenally rapid growth of NSCAR). Moreover, the struggle against racism is in the interest of almost every American citizen. If any one section of society can be systematically deprived of their equal rights then the rights of all of us are in danger. The old solidarity slogan, "An injury to one is an injury to all," is still valid today. The only people who profit from racism are slumlords, employers who increase their wealth by paying oppressed minorities lower wages and demagogic politicians. I think our society would be better off without those three types of people.

Second, I am not as "lonely" as you seem to believe I am. I have received invaluable help from many teachers in Dist. 211. I am also grateful to certain members of the Fremd High School and Harper College student governments. The Fremd student newspaper, the Prologue, and some members of the Northwest Opportunities Center are also worthy of thanks. However, I would like to take this time to tell all of the above that while their aid has been appreciated, there is still much for us to do. Unfortunately, the news media appears to expect instant results. I am sure those readers of The Herald who have ever been involved in any political cause can tell them otherwise. Currently our main problem in Fremd High School has been procedural, not political. It seems that in order to carry out any sort of activity, a faculty sponsor is necessary. It appears to me that a teacher who is not already overburdened with work and extracurricular activities is some sort of rare animal. Then there are the usual problems of getting everyone together at one place at one time. While the low level of political consciousness among students in this area is a major problem, the picture is nowhere near as gloomy as painted by The Herald.

In the Chicago area as a whole the prospects for NSCAR are very bright. Different areas develop politically at different rates. With time and patience, much can be achieved in the Northwest suburbs. I suggest that The Herald try to acquire these qualities of foresight and patience.

Defeat of Kelly bill supported

You are to be commended for your editorial supporting the defeat of the Kelly abortion bill. The State Senate should more carefully consider the implications of the strategies used and vote against changing the present law.

In addition to the hardship to women with unstable marriages, or who are in litigation for divorce, it would deny equal protection of the law to women in poverty. During economic recession many unemployed men desert their families. For a married woman unable to locate her husband and without funds to travel to an area without consent provisions for abortion, she will be forced on welfare for a long time because of pregnancy related disability and lack of child care for an infant.

Teen-agers will also be denied equal protection who have been kicked out of the house by parents or who have voluntarily left home because of physical or sexual abuse by their parents.

The right to life will be denied women, who by revealing an untimely pregnancy, risk possibly fatal physical punishment at the hands of spouse or parent.

The most disturbing implication of the consent provision is that married women and women under 18 are the property of the male. I understand that slavery has been abolished in America. It is apparent that the male need to know about his paternity has overridden the right of women to choose the risks of pregnancy and childbirth.

Magnus upset by cartoon

I was somewhat surprised to see the cartoon on the editorial page of Saturday's Nov. 1 Herald. Some of our liberal press people are some thing of a paradox in their double standards and inconsistencies.

The cartoon is a wonder at how crocodile tears can be shed for the oppressed masses of Spain when all of the oppression of Russia and China is totally ignored. Why this double standard?

I might make the observation that I have traveled widely in Spain, and while some liberties are abridged it is nothing to the degree indicated by a whip and chain shown in the cartoon.

I might further suggest that some of your cartoonists and editorial staff would be well advised to read some of the accounts and books of the Nobel laureate and author Solzhenitsyn. He can give a first-hand, accurate account of just what real terror and oppression are. Why is this so rarely mentioned in our press, let alone criticized?

If your staff want to bleed for Spain, Chile, South Africa, etc., what about a gesture of "balance" by including equal space on the situation in India, as well as the Third World nations in Africa.

If I am in error, I would hope to hear from some of the editorial staff in this connection.

The almanac

(by United Press International)

Today is Saturday, Nov. 15, 319th day of 1975 with 46 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio.

British Prime Minister William Pitt was born Nov. 15, 1708.

On this day in history:

• In 1492, the first recorded reference to tobacco was made by Christopher Columbus, noting in his journal the use of it by Indians he had found in the "New World" of North America.

• In 1806, explorer Zebulon Pike sighted the 14,110-foot Colorado Rocky Mountain peak that bears his name.

• In 1920, the first assembly of the League of Nations was called to order in Geneva, Switzerland.

• In 1972, the United States and Cuba agreed to discuss a curb on airline hijackings.

A thought for the day: British statesman William Pitt said after the American colonies had won their independence in the Revolutionary War, "I love Americans because they love liberty." He also said: "You cannot conquer America."

Stevenson asked to help Jews

(Following is a copy of a letter to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III):

Dear Senator Stevenson:

The latest action of the United Nations against the Jewish people of the world is an outrage. I suppose the reaction from Washington, including Congress, will be the usual rhetorical hot air. For once, just once, senator, why cannot the United States take positive steps to show the world that we will not tolerate nor subsidize the efforts of the United Nations to accomplish what the Nazi party attempted during, and the decade just prior to, the second world war.

If the Third World nations are going to use the United Nations as an instrument to harass and ultimately attempt to destroy the state of Israel, then I suggest they be permitted to finance the United Nations in a one-to one manner. As each vote is equal, so the money paid by each nation should be equal. How long senator, are we going to continue to turn the other cheek?

A commendation for bike paths

Whoever the visionaries were who devised the bike path that leads from the center of Arlington Heights through Palatine to Deer Grove deserve the commendation of the citizenry. What a delight it is to wind through parks and along the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way and enjoy the benefits of these late fall days without engangering our lives on the highways.

I'm sure we will grow daily more grateful for islands of natural beauty as the area gets more built up. Should we be considering an annual Albert Volz award — for, after all, he was responsible for the formation of a separate park district in the village — for the person or group that contributes most to the enlargement of our resources for experiencing the joys of the out-of-doors?

Pantyhose may let you down, but Dorothy's held up for five years

by DOROTHY MEYER

Last weekend I tackled a five-year accumulation of columns to get them in some kind of order, and in reading through them discovered that this is anniversary time.

It's the fifth anniversary of my complaint about easy-to-open packaging that isn't, and the fourth anniversary of my experience with one-size-fits-all pantyhose that don't. Three years ago I finally got a driver's license; two years ago I did battle with the safety cap on an aspirin bottle, and just a year ago I had my first bridge lesson.

The only thing that's changed is my driving.

I'VE BECOME so frustrated trying to tear open a bag of potato chips that I would switch to pretzels in a box except the easy-to-open box says "Press in here." Press-in-here still breaks my thumbnail like it did five years ago, but now it also causes pain to the rest of the digit.

The one-size-all pantyhose still are either so big I can pull them up over my shoulders or so small that they make my toes curl.

All of which makes me reach for the aspirin bottle with the child-proof cap that's more adult-proof than ever.

Apparently all the kids in the country learned to press down and twist at the same time. I did, so the manufacturers designed something more complicated. If kids don't quit getting so smart I'll never get any pain relief.

However, pretzel boxes and pantyhose and aspirins I can't get at aren't important compared to the third anniversary of my driving.

Three years ago I was scared witless behind the wheel. Not only did I drive so slow that little kids on bicycles kept passing me, but I mentally apologized to other motorists even when I wasn't doing anything wrong.

NOW I DRIVE like everybody else,

DOROTHY MEYER

I've learned all the cuss words besides inventing a few new ones and I've made the following observations:

• Drivers of very big cars or very little cars don't take their proper turns at four-way stops.

• Males with long hair comb it a lot while driving.

• Many women apparently do not like the color green and wait at the stoplight for some other color to turn up.

• People with religious bumper stickers drive like they're in a hurry to get to heaven.

The other day when I realized that I'd been driving for three years, I also observed that I've never been ticketed, either for a parking or a moving violation.

One of my brothers says that just my getting behind the wheel is a moving violation and the other one says that riding with me is a moving experience — his heart moves up to his throat. But the fact remains that they've gotten tickets and I haven't. Yet.

Now, you might wonder, what about your bridge-playing, Dorothy?

Don't ask.

BRISTOL, R.I., Nov. 15 — Brig. Gen. Esek Hopkins, destined to be the first head of the U.S. Navy, agreed that the town of Newport would furnish a British blockading squadron with certain provisions if the latter would refrain from molesting the community unless deliberately provoked.

Ask Andy

Cardinal stays home for winter

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Rusty Tomlin, 11, of Libertyville, Ill., for his question:

HOW FAR SOUTH DO THE CARDINALS FLY?

The handsome cardinal is the most popular bird in America — and he can prove it. He is the official state bird of Illinois, plus six other states. No other state bird can equal this record. What's more, people in his home state do not have to say goodbye to him in the fall, for the cardinal is a permanent resident throughout his range.

The cardinal is a member of the finch family, though slightly larger than most of his sweet-singing cousins. The male wears an eye-catching outfit of vivid scarlet, topped with a red tuffed crown on his head. His short thick beak is very sharp, just right for grasping seeds. There is a patch of black across his eyes and under his chin. The female cardinal wears dullish brown, with touches of red on her wings, her tail and her crest. Her drab outfit is less noticeable when she sits on the nest.

These beauteous birds are at home throughout the eastern half of the United States. There they feed summer and winter on wild berries, weed seeds and assorted insects, especially the ones that damage our crops. Goodness knows who would want to harm such handsome, useful birds. But just to make sure, there are laws to protect them.

The popular cardinal is the state bird of Indiana and Kentucky, Ohio and Virginia, North Carolina and West Virginia — and Illinois. Wherever he lives, he never travels far from his favorite woodland, swamp or roadside. He is quite fond of people and often makes his home on a farm, in a park or suburban garden. There he stays throughout the year.

Come spring the cardinal parents gather grasses and rootlets to build a nest. The two or three eggs are white or palish blue, freckled with brown or pale violet blue. For a couple of weeks or so, the male brings food to the female while she sits on the nest. Then he helps to feed the chicks and in about ten days they are ready to leave home. The parents may raise two or three broods a year.

Both the male and the female whistle sweet sounding notes, though his voice is louder. They do not mind the winter weather, but sometimes food is scarce at this time of year. If you set up a bird feeding station, they are sure to come around. If you want to make the cardinal really happy, be sure to set out some sunflower seeds, which happen to be one of his favorite foods.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Andrew Lind, 9, of Arlington Heights, Ill., for his question:

WHY DOES FOG FORM IN POCKETS?

Sometimes the fog forms a misty blanket over all the scenery, far and wide. Sometimes it only settles in patches, here and there. As a rule, the foggy patch gathers in a hollow, where the ground is damp. Sometimes it forms along a river or over a low-lying swamp. Almost always a patch of fog forms over a spot of ground that happens to be damper than the ground around it.

This is because fog forms from moisture in the air — and the air is more likely to soak up moisture from patches of damp ground. In the warm sunshine this dried-up moisture becomes water vapor. We do not see it because it is an invisible gas. But when the air cools, some of the gaseous vapor turns into misty droplets — and we see a patch of fog over the old swamp.

PBS looks at another liberated woman—Sand

NEW YORK (UPI) — A good many ladies were a lot more liberated in the 19th Century than well-mannered fiction and polite society would have one believe. A PBS seems determined to show them all in suitable dramatic form.

Having already provided audiences with views of such different women of distinction as Jennie Churchill and the Pankhursts of Britain's suffragist battle, the latest candidate is Amandine Aurore Lucile Dupin, the pants-wearing, cigar-smoking French novelist who adopted the penname George Sand.

The title of the new Masterpiece Theatre selection is "Notorious Woman," scheduled to begin Sunday at 8 p.m. with Rosemary Harris playing George Sand in seven eipsodes.

GEORGE SAND'S rustic novels and her autobiography are not read much in the United States — few of her works have even been translated into English. If her name is known, it is because of what even today might be considered a flamboyant love life, which included Chopin among her succession of lovers.

Miss Harris plays the part with verve and a kind of innocent licentiousness, depicting a woman whose own loving but worldly grandmother proclaimed her good in figure but plain in face — and very rich.

One of the attributes attracted a husband. The marriage was a dismal failure but, under French law, her wealth went to her husband. That surely didn't help placate George Sand's view of society's injustice to women.

But basically, in this script and as played by Miss Harris, the novelist is a romantic and her passionate statements involve love and the relationship between men and women, as when she said: "Marriage is more than a cow shed and I am more than bait for a bull."

Arlington Hts. boy Ask Andy winner

Andrew Lind, 9, of Arlington Heights is The Herald's second Ask Andy winner, and his question appears on today's Fun Page.

Andrew, 2210 E. Sherwood, will receive a set of C. S. Lewis' Chronicles of Narnia as the price for his question being selected for publication. Ask Andy, a six-day feature in The Herald, is open to persons between 7 and 17 years old and is distributed through the Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

The first Ask Andy winner was Raymond Roberts, who last month was awarded a 20-volume set of Merit Student Encyclopedias.

Addison Trail tips Wheeling in opener

by KEITH REINHARD

If Addison Trail's basketball team is one of the 10 best in Chicagoland, Wheeling has to rank a very close 11th.

The Wildcats established that as they dropped a 59-58 heartbreaker to the Blazers in opening area cage action on the 'Cat floor Friday night.

An Addison reservist, Bob Wolf, plunked in a short shot with one second showing on the clock to push the guests over the top after they had trailed nearly the entire second half, and most of the rough and tumble ballgame.

While the Trail Blazers unveiled only two-thirds of their touted front line, it was enough to indicate that their perch among Chicagoland's finest is well founded. Scott Anderson, a 6-7 all-state candidate poured in 28 points for the guests to lead all scorers despite a super defensive effort by Wildcat vet Keith Schildt.

And 6-4 Mike Kalamiki came back in to provide some key help for Addison in the stretch after sitting out a spell in foul trouble.

But despite this established Blazer firepower, the 'Cats held the upper hand nearly all the way by combining speed and hustle with their defensive handiwork. "The kids deserved a better fate," sighed Wheeling coach Ted Ecker. "They scrapped from the opening tipoff to the final gun. I hated to see Addison get off the hook."

At times it appeared the guests never would get off. Wheeling reeled off nine straight points in the first period to take a 17-9 command and held an eight-point bulge after one quarter.

In the second stanza the hosts put together another eight-point spurt to move ahead by 10 and when Addison answered back with a pair of inside buckets, Danny Larsen fired a long pass into the middle that Schildt converted in mid-air for a 31-23 lead.

Anderson clicked for six points over the next three-plus minutes and the Blazers were still able to close the gap to 33-32 by halftime.

Addison jumped into a very temporary 36-33 lead to open the third quarter. Schildt then hit from underneath, Dave Schultz canned a 15-footer and Brian Begrowicz hit from 18-feet out to propel Wheeling back on top.

And the 'Cats stayed mostly in control over the next dozen minutes. Addison knotted the game at 55-all with 3:52 remaining, but Begrowicz put his team right back on top when Schultz fired to him all alone under the basket.

At 1:58 the Blazers had a chance to go ahead on a three-point play but settled for a 57-57 tie instead. Before the minute was out Tom Polster had flipped in a free throw and the 58-57 'Cat lead held up until Wolf connected with just a second to go.

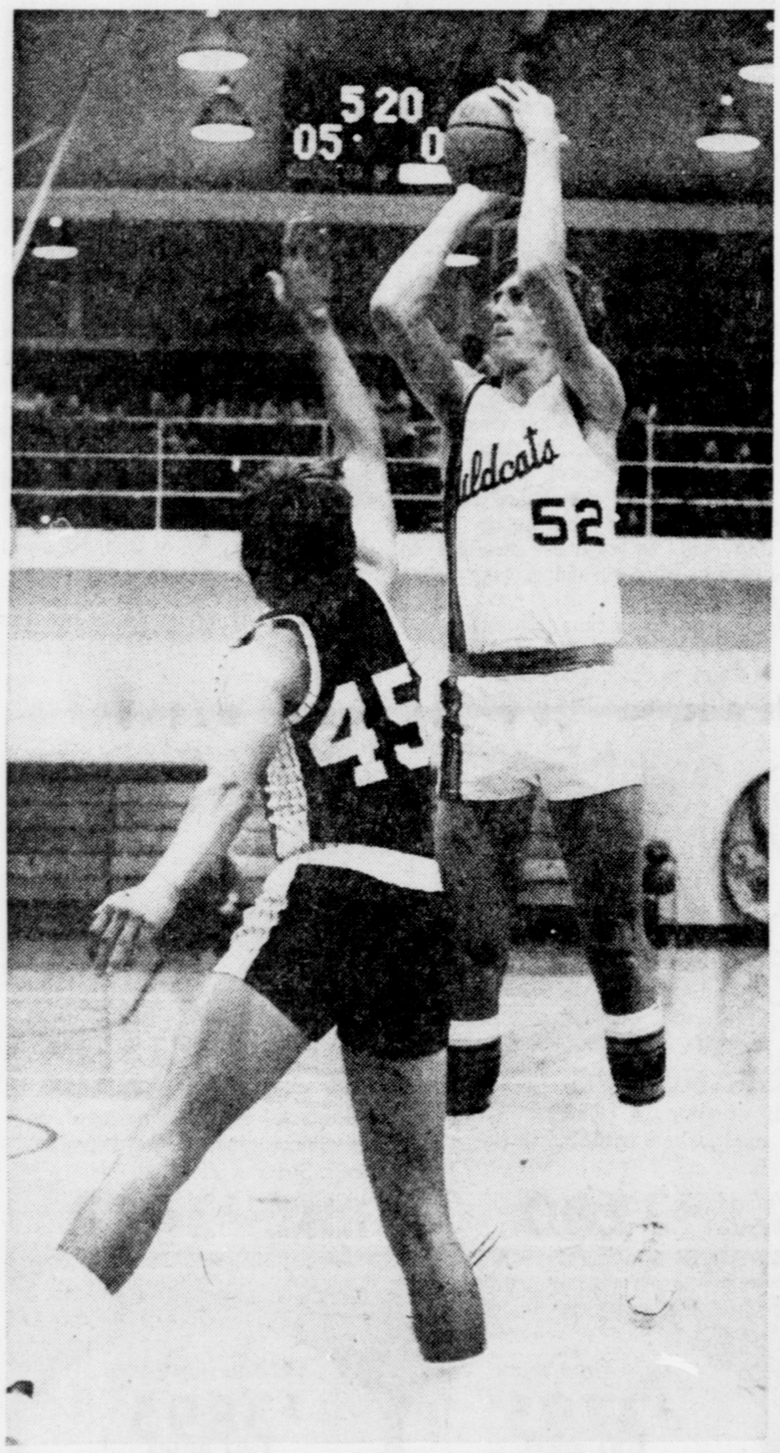

Schildt finished with 21 points and 10 rebounds and his defensive efforts in containing Anderson, especially in the second half, earned a four-star rating from the coach. Brian Begrowicz contributed 15 points to the cause, Schultz had 11 and Al Begrowicz 10.

WILDCAT ADVANCE. Wheeling's Dave Schultz (10) brings the ball down the court while Bob Wolf (33) of Addison Trail defends. Despite a super hustling effort by the 'Cats, a last second shot by Wolf allowed the Blazers to come away with a 59-58 win in the area cage opener at Wheeling Friday. (Photo by Tom Greiger)

SCHILDT SHOT. Keith Schildt of Wheeling springs high above Addison Trail's Mike Kalamiki to connect on a 15-footer in the early going of the Wildcat home opener Friday night. Corzine, Pancratz control action

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The kid scrambled up the bleachers and said breathlessly to his father, "Corzine is here!"

His father's less enthusiastic response was, "Oh, yeah?"

It has gotten that way for Dave Corzine, late of Hersey High School and presently a working member of the DePaul Blue Demon basketball team.

Corzine returned to Hersey Friday night, along with another former Huskie, Andy Pancratz. He climbed out of his van and shuffled into the school that he took downstate in 1974.

Nobody stopped to gape. No autographs were sought. The only man in the lobby with his picture on the wall, Corzine was just another 6-11 center from a visiting team.

He ambled through the practicing cheerleaders and they gawked at him, because of his size and pillowy afro, not because he was Dave Corzine. Hersey was behind him, he had made the transition from hero to myth. And myths are invisible.

Dave Corzine is in college now and people are waiting.

"Pressure doesn't really bother me," Corzine said. "If I have to take a shot in a close game I'm going to take it without worrying about the consequences.

"If it doesn't go in I'm not going to cry about it. It's not a life or death thing with me."

Ever since Corzine guided the Hersey Huskies to the Elite Eight of the state basketball tournament people have been itching to see what Corzine could do if he viewed the game as a life or death situation.

"I was disappointed last year," Corzine said. "There were games when I'd try to do everything myself. But I found out that was impossible.

"I'm excited about this year because we have the personnel to play a good, team game. I can just contribute what I can without feeling it is all up to me."

Corzine and Pancratz, along with starting guard Ron Norwood (20 points), juiced up an intrasquad game that was later described by Pancratz as "flat."

"We looked terrible tonight," said Pancratz, who popped in 19 points.

"Both Dave and I had a lot of friends out there watching us," he said, "and it's too bad we couldn't have given them a better show."

Pancratz, with a nine for 17 shooting night, indicated he may be ready to make up for his junior year.

"I don't know what happened last year," Pancratz said. "But coach (Ray) Meyer stuck with me longer than he should have, I think.

"The shots that usually went in weren't falling and he finally benched me. I had already written the season off two-thirds of the way through.

"There were a lot of problems on the team last year that I don't think we'll have this year," he said. "What do you think we had wrong with us last year, Dave?"

"Seniors," Corzine said.

"That's part of it," Pancratz agreed. "Guys like Bill (Robinzine) were working on procontracts. But when the team went bad I can't really blame him for that.

"We had a lot of other personality problems like cliques among the seniors."

Being the only senior, Pancratz will not have the chance to form a clique.

"Everybody on this team knows everybody else," Pancratz said. "I don't think we look to anyone in particular for leadership.

"Sure, I'm the captain. But all he does is shake hands with the refs. We get along too well to need on guy to keep us together."

Holding the team together on the floor calls for a man of Corzine's talents. Dueling with 7-0 junior college transfer Gary Wydra, Corzine funneled in 26 points as his Whites beat the Blues.

"The purpose of these games is to run the plays," Corzine said, "and we didn't do that tonight. I scored a lot of points but I won't know how I play until we look at somebody different.

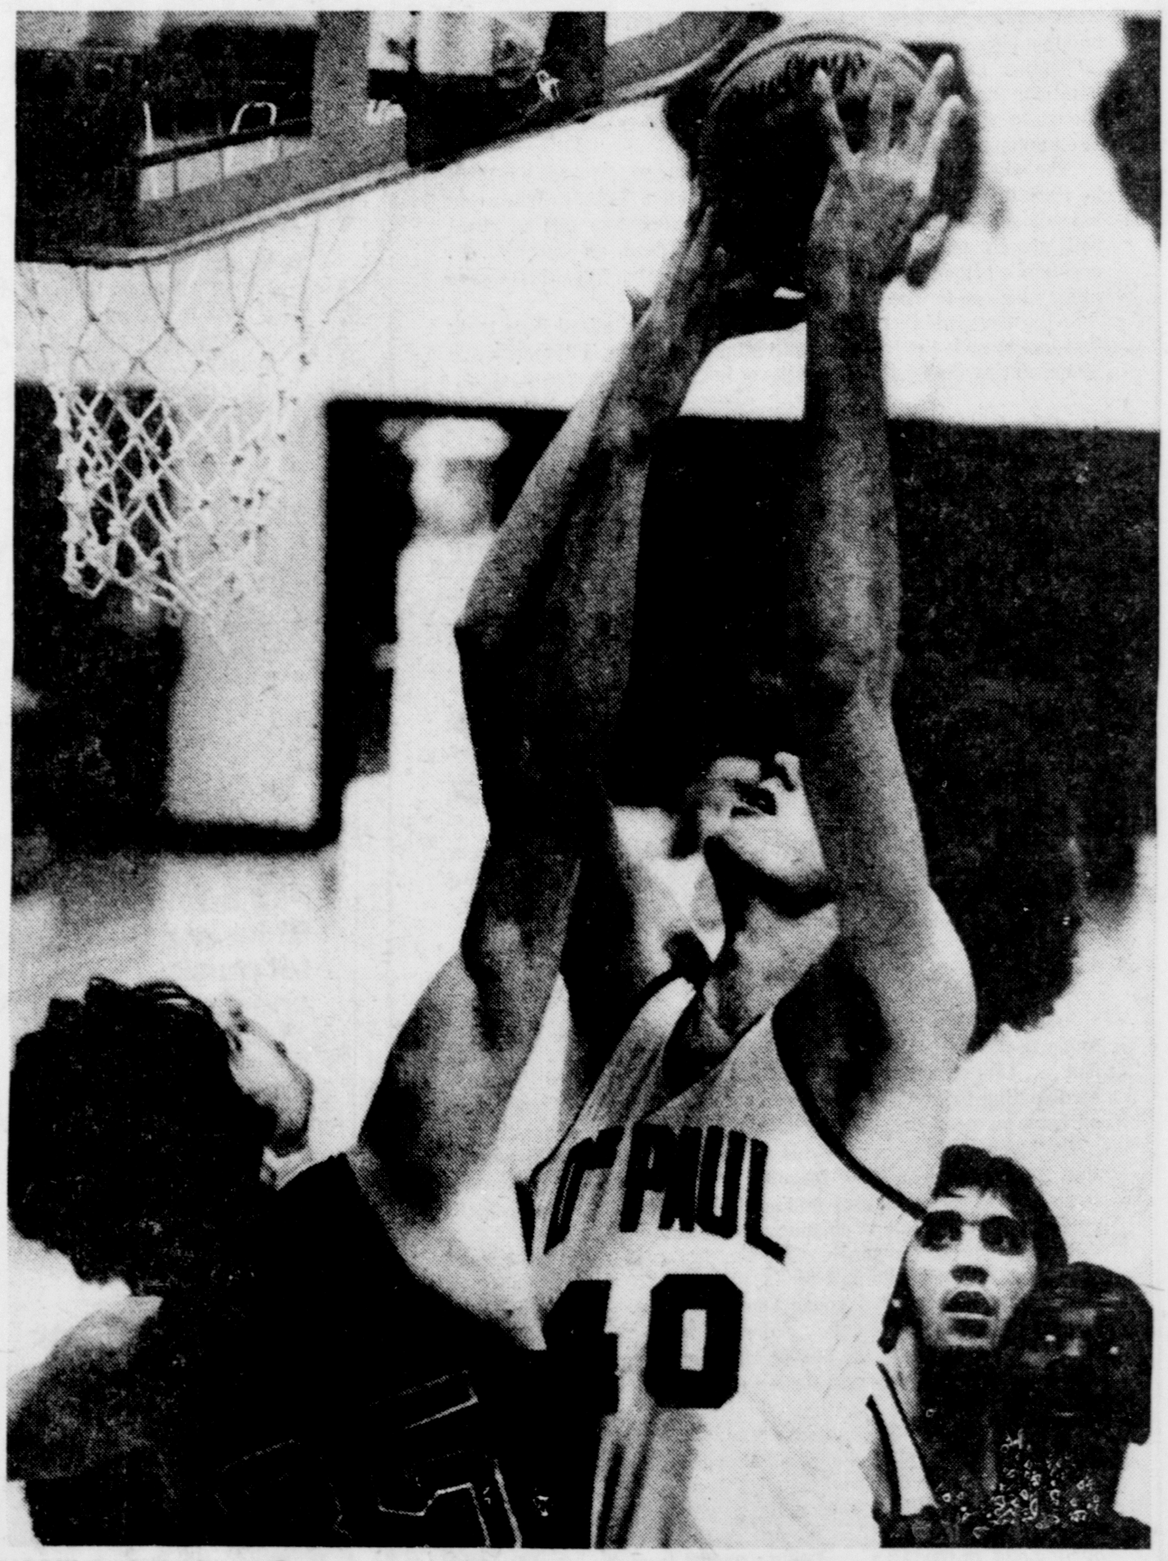

"I know people are looking to me and expecting me to do certain things," he said. "That doesn't bother me. I would rather be good and be expected to play that way instead of just average.

"I have strengths and weaknesses just like every other player. When I play well, fine. If I'm off, there will be other games."

Pancratz is seeking possible further games when his career at DePaul ends.

"I've talked to people about playing in Europe." he said. "(Jim) Bocinsky is playing over there now. When I graduate I'll have a teaching degree in social science but right now I'm not too worried about it.

"It was a whole new experience sitting on the bench last year," Pancratz continued. "And I'm not going to let it happen again. It would be pretty embarrassing if I didn't play this year."

DePAUL'S 6-11 Dave Corzine rises over Gary Wydra (35) for two of his 26 points during an intrasquad game at Hersey Friday night. Corzine, and senior Andy Pancratz, returned to the scene of their high school triumphs and combined for 45 points as the White squad manhandled the Blues. (Photo by Mike Seeling)

Norsemen land 3 gridders on O'Hare Suburban team

The Maine North Norsemen placed three players on the O'Hare suburban all-conference football team, including two defensive stars and one gridder who made it on both offense and defense.

Rick Jacobson, a two-way end, was one of just two conference selections who were chosen on both the offensive and defensive teams. The other was Gus Pasquini of Lake Park.

Defensive back Ron Brooks and linebacker Mike Abraham of Maine North joined teammate Jacobson on the all-conference defensive squad.

Maine North's Mark Biernacki, John Lipp, and Mike Coney were special mention or honorable mention choices.

Biernacki and Lipp joined Brooks on the special mention offense, and Lipp cracked the special mention defense. Coney was honorable mention on offense.

Conference champion Ridgewood paced the first-team selections with nine gridders on offense and defense. Lake Park had seven.

Deerfield vs. Loyola on radio

Hersey High School football coach Joe Gliwa will serve as a special color commentator today as the WWMM-FM microphones cover the Class 5A playoff battle between Deerfield and Loyola.

Gliwa, whose Hersey team dropped a 10-3 decision to Loyola last Saturday, will work with Bob Houghton of WWMM (92.7) with the pre-game show at 1:20 p.m. and the kickoff at 1:30 p.m.

Host Deerfield is unbeaten in 11 games and Loyola has only one loss. The other semi-final game in 5A is Willowbrook's (11-0) journey to Rockford Boylan (10-1).

Semifinal games in classes 1A through 5A will be played around the state Saturday. The championship action is set for Nov. 21-22 at Illinois State University in Normal. Championship play also will be carried over WWMM-FM with a pickup of the statewide broadcast.

Big Ten leaders must guard against letdowns

Both Ohio State and Michigan, ranked No. 1 and No. 4 nationally, faced the problem of guarding against a letdown Saturday in meeting Minnesota and Illinois in final tests before their showdown on Nov. 22 for the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl berth.

Minnesota was so decided an underdog against the Buckeyes that no point spread was listed, and Michigan was a 20-point pick against Illinois. But both underdogs might be capable of an upset.

Minnesota Coach Cal Stoll said the Gophers began playing good football against Iowa and though they lost to Michigan on a fourth quarter touchdown, they played well against Northwestern and will have "enthusiasm" against Ohio State. In addition, Minnesota has quarterback Tony Dungy, the League leader in passing and total offense.

Illinois, sharing third place in the conference with Iowa and Wisconsin at 3-3 compared to the 6-0 marks of Michigan and Ohio State, lost to Ohio State last week on second half mistakes, and Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said the Illini are "a good football team, capable of beating anybody."

He said Illinois plays "the type of defense we don't meet very often, and it's always been a problem to us."

Michigan State was a 20-point favorite over Northwestern, Wisconsin a 14-point pick over Indiana, and Purdue a nine point choice over Iowa in other Big Ten games Saturday. Notre Dame, also a bowl possibility with a 7-2 record, was a three point choice over Pittsburgh.

Bulls fall in Portland

The Portland Trail Blazers shook off a slow start and held on against a closing Chicago rush Friday night to hand the Bulls their fifth straight loss, 93-89. Chicago, now 3-7 in National Basketball Assn. play, closed to within one point with 1:10 remaining, but red-hot Geoff Petrie counted and the Blazers pulled it out over the final seconds.

In the opening half Chicago shot out to a 29-20 advantage, but Portland stormed back behind the shooting of Lloyd Neal and relief work of Larry Steele. Neal bagged 17 points as the Trail Blazers marched into a 46-42 halftime lead. Steele had six assists and three steals in just 19 minutes of action.

Bob Love popped in 14 first half points and Leon Benbow, getting a starting shot for the injured Norm Van Lier, added 11. Bulls' coach Dick Motta was ejected in the opening period and Ed Badger directed the club.

Portland continued its hot shooting in the third period, but the Bulls stayed within reach, trailing 68-64 at the buzzer.

Santee rules Senior Men

Champions were crowned in five classes Friday night after the third full day in the Upper Great Lakes Regional Figure Skating championships at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena in Mount Prospect. David Santee of Park Ridge and Frank Sweiding of Prospect Heights officially finished 1-2 in Senior Men's. Other winners Friday night were Tony Franza of Bloomington, Minn. in Intermediate Men; Amy Fusselmann of Minneapolis in Juvenile Ladies 10-and-Under Group 1; Janee Cusick of Minneapolis in 10-and-Under Group 2; Lucinda Hamill of Deerfield in 11-12 Group 3; and Lori Nein of Winnetka in 11-12 Group 4. Competition begins again today at 8 a.m.

Bears, 49ers to battle Sunday

With a victory over Green Bay packed in their bags, the Bears open a three-game road trip Sunday in San Francisco's Candlestick Park against the 49ers, hoping for further dividends from their rebuilding program.

"Neither team has playoff ambitions, but the 49ers are a big game for the Chicago Bears and we've got to go out there prepared enough to win." Jack Pardee said with the Packer game ball tucked into the top shelf of his Soldier Field locker.

"The win (27-14) came at the right time for us. We really needed to start this second half of the season with a victory. When you haven't seen the dividends of your hard work, I'm talking about both players and coaches, you tend to get down on yourself . . . question whether you're doing things correctly. Yes, this was a mighty big one for the Chicago Bears."

So the 49ers and their fans will be seeing a revitalized Bear team that has been in the trenches with Minnesota twice, Pittsburgh and Miami during the first seven weeks of the NFL's 56th season.

Awesome front line in Kentucky

In acquiring 7-foot Caldwell Jones Friday, the Kentucky Colonels not only put together the only brother act on one team in pro basketball, but the defending ABA champions also thumbed their noses at the City of Brotherly Love.

Mrs. Ellie Brown, the Colonels' majority owner, could not help but crow over the signing of Jones, who gives Kentucky an awesome front line when teamed with 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore and his 6-9 brother Wilbert. Not to mention 6-foot-10 Tom Owens, 6-8 Marv Roberts, or 6-7 Travis Grant.

"Philadelphia had its chance to get Caldwell when our league put him up for bid, but I guess they just weren't that interested," Mrs. Brown said, with more than a touch of sarcasm. "Just think, the Philadelphia 76ers with Caldwell would even have been competitive in our league."

The agile giant, the league's leading shot-blocker, has a four-year future contract with the 76ers beginning with the 1977 season, but the Colonels said they might press a lawsuit by the ABA challenging the legality of the contract.

Connors, Dibbs meet for crown

Jimmy Connors and Eddie Dibbs meet today in an American finale to the $90,000 Dewar Cup Indoor Tennis Tournament in London . . . Dibbs, ranked 11th in the United States, reached the finals by defeating Britain's Buster Mottram, 6-3, 6-3, while Connors turned back his good friend, Ilie Nastase of Romania, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

The Quebec government Friday moved in to bail out Montreal's 1976 Olympics, announcing takeover of the main stadium complex to soak up a projected $600 million deficit and ensure the project's completion by the July 17 opening of the Games.

Hollis Stacy of Savannah, Ga., the last player on the course, dropped a 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a 74 Friday to tie Sandra Post for the first round lead in the $50,000 Lady Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament . . . Chuck Courtney of La Jolla, Calif., took over first place in the $40,000 Mexican Open Golf Tournament, shooting a five-under-par 66 for a 36-hole total of 136 and a stroke lead over Lee Trevino.

Woody Clark and Leon Spinks won the first two bouts Friday night to give the United States a 2-0 lead in their 10-bout all-heavyweight match with the Soviet National Amateur Boxing team.

Center Paul Ruffner, chosen three weeks ago in the dispersal draft of the Baltimore Claw players, was cut Friday by the Spirits of St. Louis in the ABA. . . Being dropped from the team was the second disappointment of the week for Ruffner, who played with the Northwest Travelers when they were based at Prospect High School . . . Thursday, someone stole his car.

Bowling fundamentals

Shuffle on your way to the line

THE APPROACH
By Earl Anthony
1974 Bowler of the Year

The approach is your movement toward the foul line to release the ball down the lane. Coordination of the two activities, foot movement and arm swing, are the essentials of a good approach.

Let's take up the foot work first. A trhee step approach is sometimes used when learning to bowl, and in some instances bowlers develop a five step approach. However, the four step approach is the most popular among both pros and amateurs, so we'll cover it.

One of the first points you should be aware of in developing a good approach is that the normal heel-toe stride is better replaced by more of a shuffle. Keep your feet as close to the ground as possible, especially during the final two or three steps. The reason for this is that you will want to keep your head as steady as possible during the approach. Remember, you are keeping your eyes on the target at all times, so you don't want your head to bob up and down any more than necessary.

A smoother stride also takes a lot of the jerkiness out of your arm swing and final delivery. Your goal should be to achieve a single fluid motion comprised of the steps forward, and a smooth ball release.

After taking your beginning stance, shift your weight to the left foot as you begin the approach. As you start off, moving the right foot forward, you will almost naturally push the ball away from your body. At about the same time you complete the first step you should be holding the ball in front of you about an arm's distance.

During the second step, with your left foot, your right arm will be dropping downward and reach the bottom of its arc.

Your right foot makes the third step as the ball's weight carries it into the backswing to up around shoulder height.

If correctly coordinated, the forward swing of the ball and the advancement of your left foot in the fourth and final step will be together.

It is important to always advance in a straight line from your starting stance to ball delivery. By noting which board your left foot rested on at the beginning and comparing it with the board that foot is on at the end, you'll be able to tell if you have maintained a straight forward approach, and if not, which way you veered.

After experimentation and practice, you'll find the right spot for you to begin your approach. Use the lane boards to adjust your position sideways. After a time you will also find the correct distance back from the foul line for you.

If you should find it necessary to alter the length of your stride in order to finish at the right spot it is best to make a change in the first step. This will leave the final ones more comfortable and natural, which is important for a good delivery.

Next: THE ARM SWING

AS YOU BEGIN the approach, raise the ball into a comfortable position between your waist and shoulders, lean forward slightly, and ease the weight of the ball onto your bowling arm. You will almost naturally push the ball towards the lane while ing the initial step. Your arm swing should reached its lowest point and begun its back after completion of the second step.

Aaron happy with Brewers' selection

NEW YORK (UPI)—First thing everybody wanted to know after Alex Grammas was named Milwaukee manager was how did Hank Aaron feel about it, and that makes Hank Aaron laugh because he felt the same way Sparky Anderson, Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan did about it — positively delighted for Alex Grammas.

Hank Aaron isn't at all interested in managing the Brewers' and never was.

Why should he be?

He'll be making $250,000 as a designated hitter with them next season, more than twice what any manager will be getting, and there's a vice presidency with the club waiting for him after he's all through playing.

To top it off, Hank Aaron is about to be granted a major beer distributorship, and when that happens he'll be nearly as well off financially as that other aging long ball hitter, Muhammad Ali.

Hank Aaron wasn't even in the semi-finals when the Brewers got down to picking their man. Roy Hartsfield, Honolulu's manager this past season; Joe Altobelli, who was at Rochester, and Billy Hunter, Baltimore's brainy third base coach, were the three under consideration right down to the end, and when the Brewers finally decided Grammas was their man, he wasn't that easy to get.

"I had doubts," says the 49-year-old former Reds' coach, in better physical shape than a lot of players you see out there every day. "The situation in Cincinnati was great. I mean working for Sparky and being in that organization, you couldn't have a better deal than that. They paid me good, and I was never happier in all my t baseball. Now you're gonna a why I took the Milwaukee job. it because of the impression from their people I met, Ed rald, Bud Selig and Jim Ba They struck me as being com dedicated, the same way we w Cincinnati. I just liked the w talked. I'll tell you this: if we' lost to Boston, I'd have been rel to take the thing."

With the Reds, Alex Gra liked by all the players, was Anderson's good right Grammas joined the Reds the time as Anderson in 1970 after coached five years with the P and Anderson knew a couple o were intersted in Grammas the World Series. Only a few after the Series was over and were riding together downtow the Greater Cincinnati Airport, son put his arm around Gramm said to him:

"Okay, Alex. We've won the championship, and now you can Answered Grammas: "Im n I wanna go. I'll have to think it."

Hoffman Estates

Commandos 12, N. Austin 7

The Hoffman Commandos mounted a 60-yard drive in the closing minutes of the game, capped by Andre Fournier's 3-yard plunge to paydirt to advance to the finals of the Chicago Suburban Junior Football league playoffs. The victory kept alive the Commandos' unbeaten string in 1975.

The Commandos got a first-half TD on a 36-yard pass from QB John Bernat to flanker Jay Hassell, but the extra point was no good and a North Austin touchdown on the opening kickoff of the second half gave the visitors the lead, 7-6.

The Commandos will battle for the title at 2 p.m. Sunday against the unbeaten Park Ridge Falcons at Elk Grove High School.

Bowling

At Thunderbird Lanes

Bb Arnold, Sr., bowling on the Sebastian team in the N.W. Businessmen's League at Thunderbird Lanes, was the top roller with a 247 game. Games of 142 and 171 helped him to a fine 560 series.

At Elk Grove Bowl

Jan Honemann led the scoring in the six-team Thursday afternoon Ladies Classic League with a 582 series on games of 163-216-203. She followed that effort up with series of 521 and 535. Fawn Turschman also found Elk Grove Bowl to her liking with a series of 547 (221) and 544 (231). Other fine kegling was turned in by Sue Lewis 517-508-534, Betty Smart 524-511, Shirley Elliott 532, Shirley Hatfield 521, Audrey Delaurier 204, Kay Meyer 516-561 and Rose Vege 537-216.

At Thunderbird Lanes

Helm Heller's 651 and Al Nitzke's 601 highlighted action at the Allstate Men's Bowling Organization at Thunderbird Lanes. Having the high game was shared by Harry Hansen and Heller with a 262 . . . Other top individual showings were turned in by Pat O'Malley 241-227, Hitzke 235-224, Jack Oleksy 244, Norm Godden 238, Bill Roscoe 238, Ron Adams 256, Kalvaitis 235-235, Bob Saik 233 and Tom Trakszelis 229.

At Fair Lanes Bowl

Eileen Darnstaedt unraveled games of 142-210-181 for a 533 series to highlight action in the Wednesday Morning Melodies at Fair Lanes Rolling Meadows Bowl. Judy Janes hit 206-593, Barb Bade 209-477, Marilyn Elliott 169-470 and Gert Grogan 170-468. Other top games were a 178 by Donna Donges, 177 by Janice Wissert, 170's by Gloria Mehl and Dolores Sapp and Audrey Laurent's 166.

At Beverly Lanes

FOX VALLEY managers Paul Nolan (left) and Dave Gromer flank the regulations governing the .22 target range.

Public practice range preaches safety first

Fox Valley sharpens gun skills

There's only one time when being called a conservationist is somewhat upsetting. That's making a long trek through the marsh from the duck blind without ducks.

In this instance, a conservationist is a tongue-in-cheek, good-natured way of saying, "You're a lousy shot." I could have run for conservation director the first weekend of the duck season after emptying the three-shot chamber of my full-choke Winchester Model 12 pump twice without success.

I wasn't skybusting, mind you, just inexcusably missing at point-blank range. My immediate reaction was to obviously blame the gun — hoping its discharge was irregular or that the sights were faulty.

Other area "conservationists" sharing this dilemma probably have only one place to turn — Fox Valley Rifle Range, Inc., a spacious 160-acre layout on the northern outskirts of Carpentersville.

Unless they are members of a private club that offers practice shooting, the public's access to a range is extremely limited. Lincoln Park in Chicago caters to skeet shooting on the lakefront, but it can't come close to handling the volume of customers Fox Valley can accommodate.

"Safety is our aim," Fox Valley co-manager Paul Nolan stressed while issuing a complete set of general conduct and safety regulations to each shooter entering the check-in office.

"Our philosophy here is that the customer is always wrong," he wryly smiled. "We have stringent rules that must be obeyed. The use of the range may be denied for anyone violating them.

"We've been in operation for 30 years," Nolan said, "and we've never had an accident at our range. On a good Saturday or Sunday, we may have 1300 shooters out here. I think our record speaks for itself."

The firing lines are constantly patroled and special shot-shell limitations (12-gauge shells must be regulation trap or skeet loads) further emphasize the safety factor.

The Fox Valley Rifle Range has 200 shooting benches and targets, 1,000 feet of firing line and 24 clay bird traps. The range is restricted to rifle and shotgun shooting only at a cost of $2.50 per day. Pistol and revolver shooting is not permitted.

"We get some complaints from pistol shooters," Nolan admitted, "but we just don't have the facilities for them to make it a safe sport. There's a distinct difference between handguns and long guns such as rifles and shotguns.

"Pointing a handgun in the wrong direction can be done unconsciously and since we have no safety bays between stations, we don't feel we're qualified to permit their use on our range."

The .22 shooter has his choice of 50-foot, 75-foot and 50-yard target ranges including a large plinking range with floating targets and swinging steel plate targets.

For the hi-power enthusiasts, a 50-yard range with 30 bench rest positions, a 100-yard range with 65 benchs and a 200-yard range with 40 benchs are available. Swinging steel plates can also be found on the 100 and 200-yard ranges and spotting scopes are furnished.

There are two shotgun ranges equipped with 24 clay bird manual traps which you operate yourself.

A retail store and snack bar are centrally located on the premises for the shooter's convenience in purchasing targets, clay birds or ammunition.

Fox Valley stocks a complete line of new and used guns, reloading equipment and components. Firearms are also available on a rental basis.

Many area high schools have formed gun clubs and employ Fox Valley on a weekly basis during light shooting hours. The range is open daily from 9 a.m. to dusk, Sundays and holidays from 8 a.m. to dusk and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., closing only on Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years Day and Easter.

Father-son, husband-wife and family rates are available on an annual basis.

One way to reach Fox Valley Rifle Range is to take Higgins Rd. west to Rte. 25, turning north and continuing to Bolz Rd. (one mile south of Rte. 62). Turn west on Bolz, three-quarters of a mile to the range entrance.

Winter's no time for hibernation

Vic Watia

Winter in snow-covered states is not as boring as armchair outdoors-types would have us believe.

About this time of year, too many settle down with the bears for a long winter nap when there's a wealth of winter fun waiting to be explored.

It may be impossible to fly fish for trout on ice-covered streams, but there's plenty of activity to keep the outdoor enthusiast going when snow is on the ground.

Skiing, skating, snowmobiling and ice fishing occupy a big percentage of winter outdoor interests, but thousands more look to snow for other reasons.

Families can continue many summer outdoor activities in the winter by adding a little imagination.

Baseball, for instance, might not sound like an exciting winter sport. However, for family fun, laughs and good exercise try a game on snowshoes.

The winter substitute for children building sand castles is to take up ice and snow sculpturing, although artists who take it serously would scoff at such a comparison.

Something as simple as a winter picnic becomes an exciting family outing.

Many campers prefer winter months to summer months because it allows them to escape the crowds. Also, their favorite campgrounds and hiking areas take on a new appearance in the winter and re-visiting them can be a rewarding experience.

A fresh snowfall provides the best opportunity for the hunter to teach his youngsters about animal tracks. Families can take hikes without worrying about bug bites.

Ice sailing is an unbelievable adventure. Adults find the popular sport of scuba diving becomes a whole new experience when done through the ice. However, both can be dangerous and should be done with experienced individuals.

Winter provides a new face to spark the interest of amateur photographers, with normally drab subjects suddenly becoming challenges through a viewfinder.

The deer hunter might be interested in organizing a local effort to take up collections to feed deer herds in areas with heavy snowfalls. Snowmobile clubs often can be persauded to join in such projects.

The angler interested only in fair weather fishing can devote hours on a workbench to getting ready for next season. He might try tying trout flies and popping bugs, pouring plastic worms, carving fishing plugs, replacing broken and rusty hooks on lures, replacing worn out guides on rods, cleaning reels and sorting out tackle boxes.

Then there is fishing line to replace and rain gear, waders and hipboots to repair. Also, the fisherman can devote time to building a custom rod or constructing a new boat.

For more family fun, there is sledding, tobogganing, hockey, broomball and dog sledding. If that isn't enough, it's easy to come up with more — simply by using one's imagination.

Kayak course offers basic instruction

Pack and Paddle, Inc., in conjunction with Camp Duncan YMCA will offer a course in the River School of Kayaking including three classroom and five pool sessions covering paddle strokes, slalom techniques, river hydrology, equipment needs and the art of Eskimo rolling in a k-1, c-1 or c-2.

The classroom sessions will be held at Pack and Paddle, Inc., 705 E. Park Ave. in Libertyville while the pool sessions will be held at Camp Duncan YMCA, Rte. 12, one-quarter mile north of Rte. 120 in Volo.

The three classroom sessions will be Nov. 20, Dec. 18 and Jan. 8 from 7-9 p.m. The pool classes will be held Nov. 30, Dec. 14 and 21, Jan. 4 and 11 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. with instructors and equipment supplied and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. without instructors or equipment, the latter for those who wish to practice or improve their skills.

Cost of the program is $30 per person for the three classroom and five pool sessions, but the class is limited to 20 persons.

For $15, a person may participate in pool time between 7:30 to 9:30 using his own gear, but again, the class is limited to 20 persons. All equipment that enters the water must be washed with a chlorine solution which will be supplied.

For more information, call Pack and Paddle, Inc. at 367-0090.

Ski champ visits Sports Chalet

Men's World Freestyle Skiing Champion, John (J.C.) Clendenin, a member of the Salomon Freestyle Team, will host Sports Chalet's Salomon Ski Film Festival Saturday, Nov. 29 at Randhurst.

In addition to talking with ski enthusiasts in Sports Chalet's winter sports goods department, Clendenin will host two showings of "The Great Salomon Ski Film Festival" in the Town Hall, on Randhurst's lower level at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. The showings are free but tickets are required to assure seating. Free tickets should be picked up at Sports Chalet.

John Clendenin is one of the best known freestylers in the world. He was named the 1973 world freestyle champion for the best combined win at the world championships, and won the title again in 1974.

Last year he also won the Rocky Mountain Ballet title and has been a member of the coaching staff at Salomon's "Make Me Hot" summer freestyle camps for the past two summers. He spends his free time now working with equipment designers and has starred with skier Wayne Wong in Salomon's two ski promotion films, "Between Haos and Beauty" and "Go For It." Door prizes also will be offered at the film fest.

prime
ACCORDING TO WEBSTER:
prime¹ (prīm), adj. 1. first in rank; chief. 2. first in time or order; fundamental; original. 3. first in quality; first-rate; excellent.
ACCORDING TO MARRIOTT: All of the above and more. Particularly when it refers to our juicy U.S.D.A. prime rib of beef. So tender it almost melts in your mouth.
In fact, our prime ribs are so good that we've given over an entire restaurant to this, the king of beef. We call it the Chaparral. Five succulent cuts of prime rib, all cooked to your specifications for perfection. Complete with an extensive salad bar, homemade bread and popovers from just $7.50.
WIN A TRIP TO THE OLD WEST
.....you may win an all expense paid vacation for two (including airfare) to Marriott's Camelback Inn, Scottsdale, Arizona. Nothing to buy; simply register at the Chaparral now through Dec. 12. Or, perhaps, you'll win the weekly prize of dinner and theatre tickets for four at Drury Lane North legitimate theatre.
But even if you don't win the trip, or one of the dinner/theatre packages, you can't help but be a winner with your dinner at the Chaparral. Open for dinner only. Try our lavish Sunday brunch!

Resume Service

HOW IMPORTANT ARE RESUMES?

A resume is your first impression with a potential employer. It is the only effective method to present your credentials when applying for a job.

Unfortunately, a resume will frequently ELIMINATE an applicant than it will secure the all-important interview.

Your resume will compete for attention with those of many other applicants for that interview.

How can you overcome this obstacle? Your resume must be composed so that it DEMANDS attention and at once presents you as a logical choice for employment.

How can you make sure that your resume will generate more interviews?

Phone for details or a no-obligation appointment. Since 1957, we have assisted men & women on their first job, to the senior executive.

Announcement

OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 as amended (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234), it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in the Village of Elk Grove.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by Harza Engineering Company of Chicago.

The purpose of the study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or likely to be developed and to determine flood elevation for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as for determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of the study so that they may have an opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the chief executive officer of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration.

HIGH WAVES pound a Chicago Fire Dept. rescue boat Friday as it searched for three men who were swept into Lake Michigan Thursday. Victims were identified as Anibal Melendez, 28, and Leo Reina, 32, who were swept off a breakwater by huge waves. George Terry, 21, a football player from Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, tried to rescue the two men, but apparently drowned in the attempt.

Walker will call special session

A spokesman for Gov. Daniel Walker said Friday the governor will call a special session Monday to deal with a proposal by eight Democratic state senators to distribute $30 million to Illinois schools.

Norton Kay, the governor's press secretary, said details of the proposal are still under advisement.

The senators met with Walker Wednesday after asking for the special session and disclosing their plan, which would distribute $30 million instead of the $116 million schools would get if the Senate next week overrides Walker's school aid vetoes.

MSD contracts probed

A federal grand jury in Chicago is investigating multi-million dollar contracts the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago signed with the Ingram Barge Co. of New Orleans to move sludge to Fulton County, Ill. The contracts totalled almost $46 million and may have involved as much as $1 million in alleged payoffs.

U.S. Attorney Samuel Skinner confirmed that a grand jury has been conducting "an ongoing investigation" of the alleged payoffs since July in cooperation with the International Revenue Service, but declined to comment on the case further.

Daley budget: $1.4 billion

Mayor Richard J. Daley Friday introduced in the City Council a $1.14 billion budget for 1976 which includes pay raises of 5.5 per cent for city employes and promises no new local taxes. Daley said although taxes will not be raised, some city fees will be increased, including those for permits, inspections, liquor licenses and health code licenses.

Doctors ordered jailed

Resident doctors and interns who won a new contract Thursday after an 18 day strike at Cook County Hospital lost in court Friday. Circuit Court Judge Donald J. O'Brien found the striking Hospital Staff Association and seven doctors in contempt for ignoring his back to work orders.

The association was fined $10,000 and seven doctors, including strike leader Dr. Kevin Geraghty, were ordered to jail for 10 days. The jailing was delayed until at least next Thursday.

Harvester slates layoffs

Some 2,400 employes will be temporarily laid off Dec. 1, by the International Harvester Co., a company spokesman said Friday. Jules C. Laegeler, division president, said employees from the Melrose Park and Libertyville plants would be laid off at least two months.

"The recession in the construction industry, especially housing, has lasted longer than we expected," Laegeler said. "This resulted in a buildup of our inventories of finished machines."

Enough money: Partee

Illinois Senate President Cecil Partee, responding to Gov. Daniel Walker's televised plea to sustain his vetoes on educational funding cuts, said Friday there is enough money to restore the cuts and failure to do so will increase local real estate taxes.

Dow Jones rallies to gain 2.44 pts.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many investors retreated to the sidelines Friday and prices closed mixed in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

There was some blue-chip buying interest, however. The Dow Jones industrial average, down two points in the first hour, rallied to gain 2.44 points to 853.67. The Dow, which lost 1.02 points Thursday, finished the week with a 17.87-point gain.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.07 to 90.97 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased three cents.

INVESTOR UNCERTAINTY showed in the market's breadth figures. Of the 1,826 issues crossing the tape, 687 declined, 667 advanced and 472 remained unchanged.

Volume slowed to 16,460,000 shares from the 25,070,000 traded Thursday, the heaviest trading session since July 16. Oils were mixed. President Ford was undecided whether to approve a compromise energy bill, which would phase out price controls over a 40-month period. After some maneuvering, Congress passed an emergency bill to extend present controls 30 days, something the President said he would consider favorably. Controls were to expire Sunday.

Atlantic Richfield gained 1½ to 95, Ohio Standard ¾ to 73 and Superior Oil ½ to 177½, Getty Oil lost 1¾ to 167½. Halliburton and Hughes Tool, both oil service issues, were point-size losers.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC topped the Big Board actives, off 3/8 to 11¾ on 330,700 shares, including a block of 249,900 shares at 11-5/8. White Consolidated, which lost ¾ to 21-7/8, sued Westinghouse in a dispute over the use of the Westinghouse brand name and trademark in Canada.

Levitz Furniture followed, off 4 to 4¼ on 188,200 shares. Pan American World Airways was third, unchanged at 5¼ on 162,000 shares.

Prices closed mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share rose one cent. Volume totaled 1,550,000 shares, down from the 2,220,000 traded Thursday.

chased studded tires can pull out the small metal spikes at the end of the season, said Bud Tempes, owner of Elk Grove Firestone Inc., Elk Grove Village. "It takes a lot of pull with the pliers and with 76 studs on the average per tire, we can do the job in four minutes," Tempes said.

"It's a real good Sunday afternoon football project," Tempes said for the do-it-yourself studplucker. "You take one of the tires, roll it in the living room and sit down in front of the television."

Tempes said drivers gain 40 per cent better traction with studded tires compared to snow tires without the studs. He said a new non-studded tire in the market offers added traction because it has wood shavings in the tread.

REPLACEMENTS for the studded tire include tires made from relatively soft rubber, the dealer said. Tempes said he's seen a tire-shredding process which also adds to the tire surfaces, and plastic chains are coming on the market as a replacement for metal chains.

"My feeling is that the studded tires are still the best," Tempes continued. He sells the studded tires, offering to remove the studs at the end of the season.

"We don't push them on the customer. We explain the law to them and if they still want them they can buy them," said Joseph Busch, owner of Busch Auto Service Center in Palatine. "Let's not kid ourselves. They are outstanding," he said of studded tires.

Busch said most of his customers buy the non-studded tires. Heavy sales of snow tires start during November if there is a heavy snowstorm. "When the snow hits, that's when they come," Busch said.

Announcement

OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 as amended (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234), it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in the Village of Elk Grove.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by Harza Engineering Company of Chicago.

The purpose of the study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or likely to be developed and to determine flood elevation for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as for determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of the study so that they may have an opportunity to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the chief executive officer of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration.

'We aren't the bad guys'

Officials at A. C. Nielsen Co. say don't blame them for taking your favorite TV shows off the air

STORIES by STEVE BROWN

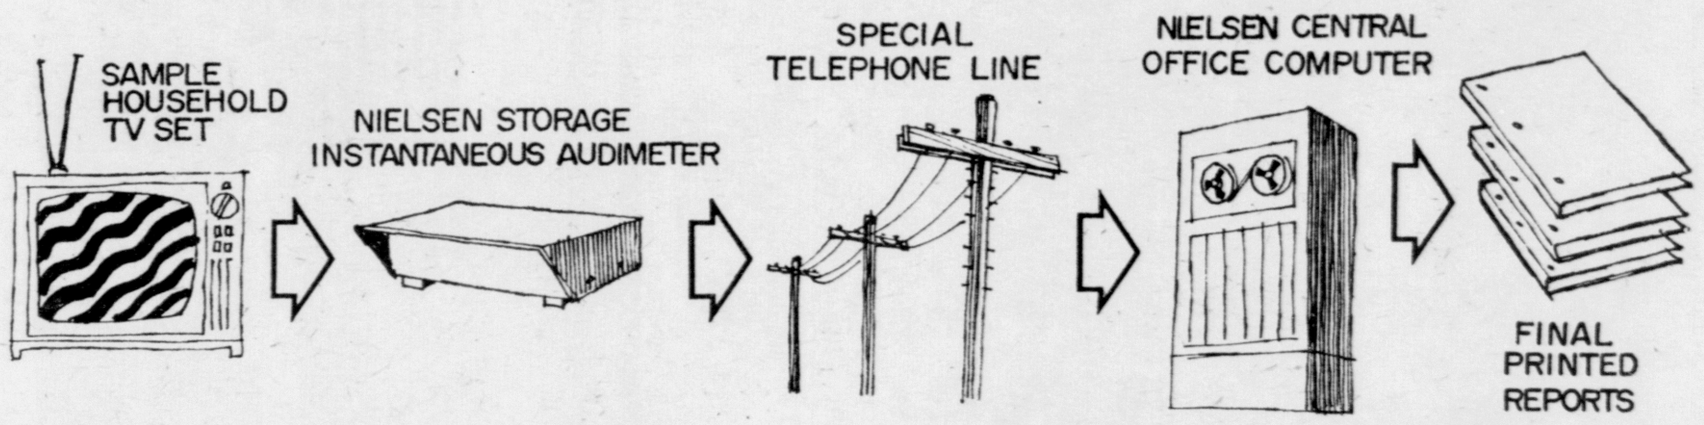

Television ratings, like the fickle finger of fate, can reach out and flip your favorite program off the air quicker than one, two, three.

The television numbers game — as played by the A.C. Nielsen Co., Northbrook, television moguls and advertising executives — is as important as the Federal Reserve Bank counting the day's receipts.

The ratings game is the phenomenon that has brought Floyd Kalber's female sidekick, Jane Pauley and the Moog Synthesizer to Newscenter 5; pushed "Hawaii Five-O" opposite the "Rockford Files;" and forced CBS to move many of its top situation comedies into time slots opposite Monday Night Football.

Industry officials try to tell the public that the ratings are not everything when it comes down to a decision on what shows will get canceled and what shows stay on the air. But some officials indicate that nearly 99 per cent of the decision making is based on the numbers.

The Nielsen people, like promotions manager Travis Whitlow, bend over backwards trying to dispel the bad guy image they sometimes get from compiling the data which knocks favorite programs off the air.

The ratings game: How the Nielsen system works.

"Nielsen is a lot like the ticket takers at the theater. We don't decide what is seen and what is not. We just collect the data and then compile the reports," he says.

One handy little epistle put out by the company called "Everything You Always Wanted to Know about TV Ratings (but were maybe too skeptical to ask)" states that "cross our hearts, we do not take your favorite show off the air."

The company also states that it uses much more than the infamous 1,200 Storage Instantaneous Audimeters (SIAs), those little black boxes hooked to selected television sets. They also ask the families they choose to keep diaries to double check on the machines which could be duped by unscrupulous Americans who turn on their sets and then go off and play ping pong.

The ratings game is complicated process. Nielsen first selects 1,200 households across the nation at random, using U.S. Census Bureau information and a process the company says is too complicated to explain. Your chance of being selected is roughly 1 in 60,000.

Once the families are picked, the SIAs are attached. They store data on when the set is on, how long it stays on and on what channel. Nielsen has even gone so far as to make SIAs battery operated so the device will not go off in a power shortage even if the television set does.

Then the computers go to work. The SIAs are linked to a central office by telephone equipment and technicians check the SIAs by telephone twice a day for the data. While the boxes tell what was on the screen and for how long, Nielsen also requires the families to keep a log of who was watching so ratings can be broken down into age group and sex. This data is matched with other survey information to balance and double check what the SIAs report.

Using this system and other methods, Nielsen can also give overnight ratings on programs in New York and Los Angeles and measure audiences in Canada and Japan. It also offers local surveys on 200 markets across the country, several times during the year. The larger the market, the more frequently it is sampled, say Nielsen officials.

Whitlow says Nielsen constantly is trying to improve the speed and accuracy of the data it collects. The company is proud that it can now produce ratings data in about 1.5 working days, as compared to 24 days in 1954. Nielsen officials say speed is important because the average minute of prime-time television costs advertisers about $65,000.

"We get the bad guy image from people who do not know any better," Whitlow remarks.

But the question still remains — How can 1,200 familes tell 215 million people around the nation what to watch?

Looking at it another way, there are about 50 families in the Chicago metropolitan area plugged into SIAs. Nielsen officials are quick to point out that as many as 100 other persons keep diaries of the programs they watch, but won't say who they are. That amounts to about 150 persons for an area which contains 4.7 per cent of the nation's population.

The company also is quick to say that the system does not take things like artistic merit or creativity into consideration.

"We just compile the numbers for the size of audiences in various markets for the networks and the sponsors," Whitlow says. "We leave the creative awards up to the Emmys."

While network officials and ratings experts try to say they use more than the numbers to decide what goes and what stays, the people whose lives are affected by ratings disagree.

"It is no question that in the final analysis the numbers make the difference," says Grant Tinker, Mary Tyler Moore's husband and the production head of the enormously successful — and profitable — MTM Enterprises Inc.

"It does not matter if a show has intrinsic artistic merit. If it cannot be sold, then it is no good," he adds.

But the man who has helped create more winners — "Mary Tyler Moore,"

The story behind a ratings victim

"We knew we were doomed from the start."

So goes the post mortem on the less than brilliant but harmless program "Three for the Road," which is doomed for extinction. It is only one of the new TV shows that has felt the axe of low Nielsen ratings.

The man behind the death knell is Grant Tinker, the creative mind behind MTM enterprises which is one of the most successful sitcom factories in television today. He seems resigned to the fact that what amounts to the first nonsitcom, non-Mary Tyler Moore spinoff mounted by the company has failed.

"Sure it's frustrating but you can't expect the ratings when the network cannot clear the time slot nationally," he told Leisure, adding the hour-long adventure featuring a father, his two sons and their lovable 31-foot-motor home, Zebec, runs Sunday night in only nine of the top 50 markets in the country. One of them is Chicago.

"You can't expect a show to succeed on that basis," he adds.

But he says the effort that goes into a show which appears to have little chance of success is no different than a ratings hit like "Phyllis."

"It takes the same amount of effort to make a flop as it does a success," Tinker says. "Once the numbers are in, there is really nothing that can be done.

"CBS really wanted to stick with Beacon Hill but they could not develop a following," says Tinker about the lavish dramatic presentation that has gone bust.

Spend an afternoon antiquing

You can find almost anything at Nancy's.

by KAREN BLECHA

A variety of theories have been espoused on why people collect antiques. Nostalgia. Investment. Respect for the American heritage.

Some collect because furniture today won't last. Others are tired of chrome and glass. One woman says maybe we've used the antiques in a previous life and have an emotional attachment to them. She admits it's far-out.

No matter the reason, half the fun of buying antiques is finding them. Whether it be a 40-year-old Jim Beam bottle or a hand-carved Victorian bedpost. A collector will sort through hours of junk, tramp through the countryside and visit countless garage sales looking for just the right piece to add to his collection.

Antiquing is a good way to spend the day, a good way to relive the past and reminisce. Try following U.S. Rte. 12, commonly known as Rand Road. There are a variety of shops along the road as it winds its way way through small towns and into Wisconsin.

Start on the outskirts of Palatine, sidetrack to Wauconda and work your way up to Richmond, near the Illinois-Wisconsin border. Richmond has 18 antique shops; the sidewalks still have rings where you can hitch a horse. If you're still hungry for the hunt, you can move on to Lake Geneva.

Not everything you find at the shops along the way will be antique or at least 100 years old. Most are collectibles and if you look hard enough you will find the current fads — Mason jars, Avon bottles and Depression glass. But don't expect many bargains.

"The worst kind of customers are the ones who have inherited antiques from their families," confides one antique dealer. "They can't get over the prices. But there's no such thing as a sleeper anymore.

"You can't go down to Kentucky and find something for nothing. With all the books that have been written, even the farmer in the backwoods knows what he has."

Dealers along the way are as varied as the shops although you won't find the little old man or lady who is in the business just because they like junk. Most of the dealers are willing to chat, so don't be afraid to ask questions. Some will tell you the history behind the pieces they have for sale.

Melone's Gifts and Antiques, east side of Rand Road, north of Lake-Cook Road, Palatine. A noisy cowbell announces your arrival as you open the door to this new and old shop. Joan Melone, upstairs having a cup of coffee or doing some housework, will come down and show you around.

Mrs. Melone and her husband, a plumber by trade, have been in the business for five years. She has two words of advice for the novice antiquer: buy only what you like and what you can afford.

"If you are going to be happy with what you buy — that is the key," she says.

The shop, in a blue frame building, is set back from the road and hard to find. The front section is devoted mostly to gifts and collectibles, such as milk glass, reproductions of cast-iron toys and banks and items ranging from 25 cents to several hundred dollars. Melone's has a handsome collection of antique lamp reproductions.

...along Rte. 12

In the converted garage the Melones keep their furniture and plenty of milk cans.

"I buy things I like. I find it difficult to sell what I don't," Mrs. Melone says.

Open: Tuesday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Friday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, noon to 5 p.m.

Nancy's Antiques, west side of Rand Road, north of Lake-Cook Road, Palatine. There is no Nancy here, but a Fran. Fran Bizet, who's owned a beauty parlor and restaurant called Fran's, this time decided to name her business after her daughter.

"I'll never do that again," she complains. "Everybody calls me Nancy."

Nancy's Antiques doesn't look like much from the outside — a run down grey building with a red and white metal awning and a sign that looks like it hasn't blinked "Antiques" for some time. Most days visitors will find a rusted wagon, old water pump, wicker chairs and a few milk cans on the lawn with a sign on the door that invites shoppers to come around to the back.

Don't be surprised to find Fran, who grew up down the street from her store, baking an apple pie or mixing a casserole as her Dalmatian Cleo watches from a rug on the floor. The shop is in front of the house; the kitchen-office and dining room in the back.

"This way I can make dinner and work at the same time," Fran says. The atmosphere is strictly informal.

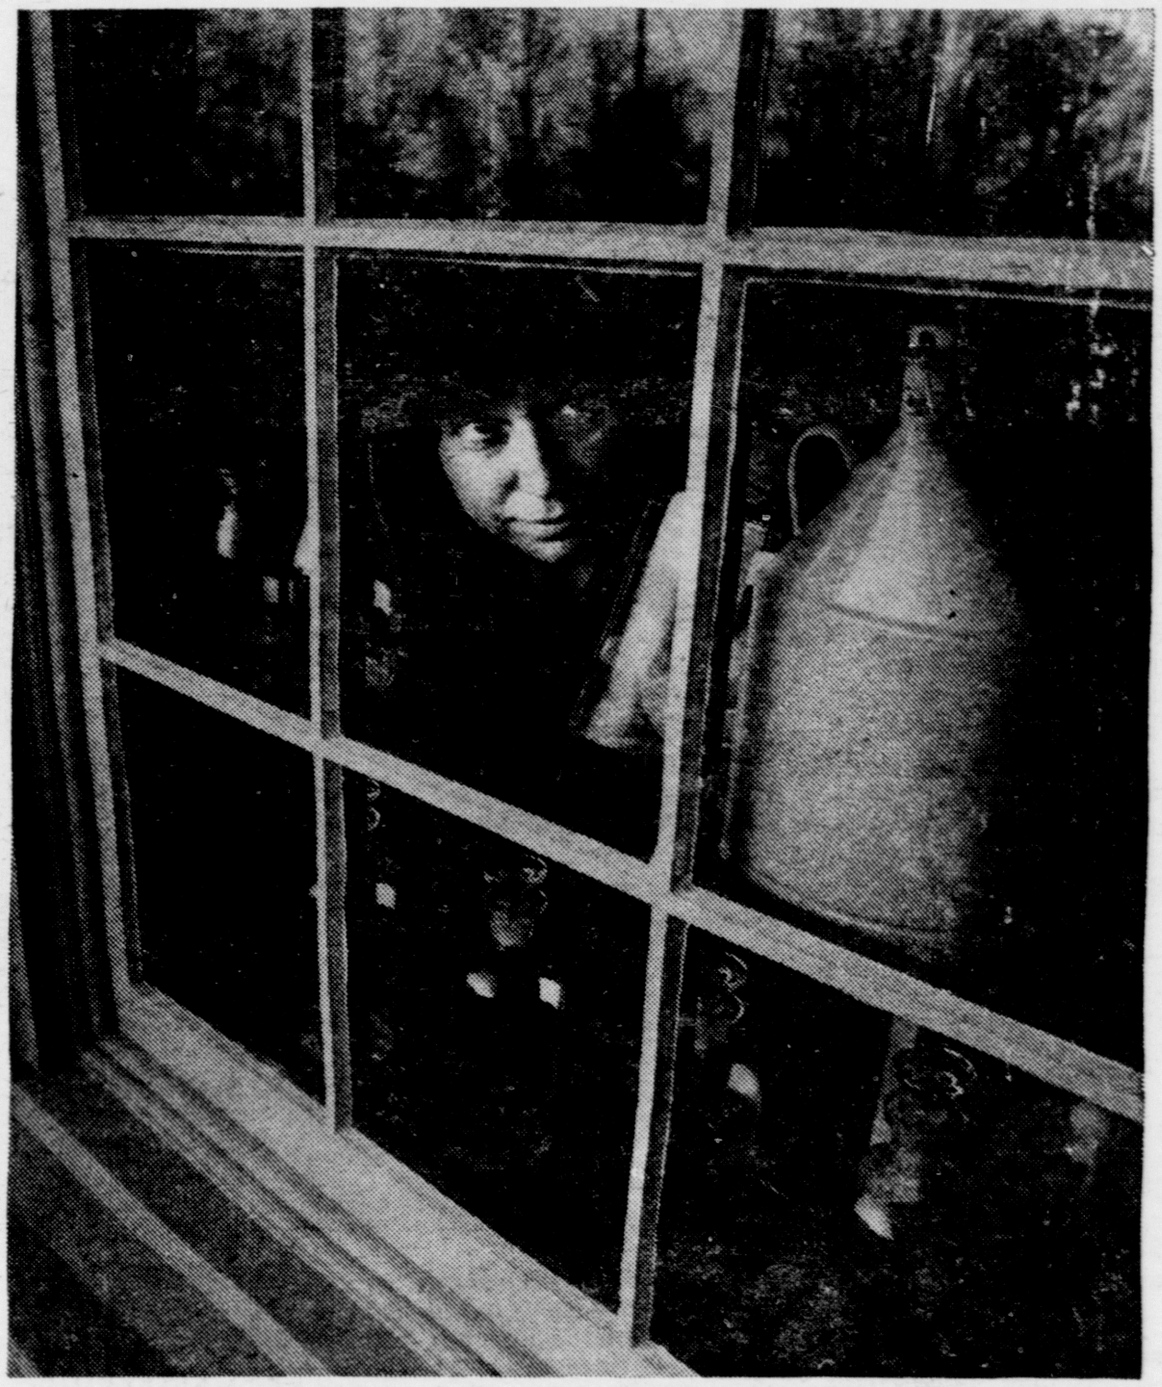

Up front are three rooms chock full of collectibles, many of them small and set precariously on narrow shelves. Fran says she specializes in art pottery but also carries some furniture and glassware. Not everything is antique, but most of it is old. Items range from several hundred dollars and true antiques like an 1845 melodeon to 50 cents for somebody's used curtain pull.

"Nothin's too cheap for me if it's cute," Fran says, sitting in her office chair with what looks like one of her husband's ties hanging over the back. But, she adds, she carries no coins, weapons or jewelry.

Fran, a grandmother, likes to buy and says she gets most of her merchandise in the area and in Florida where she and her husband spend five months of the year.

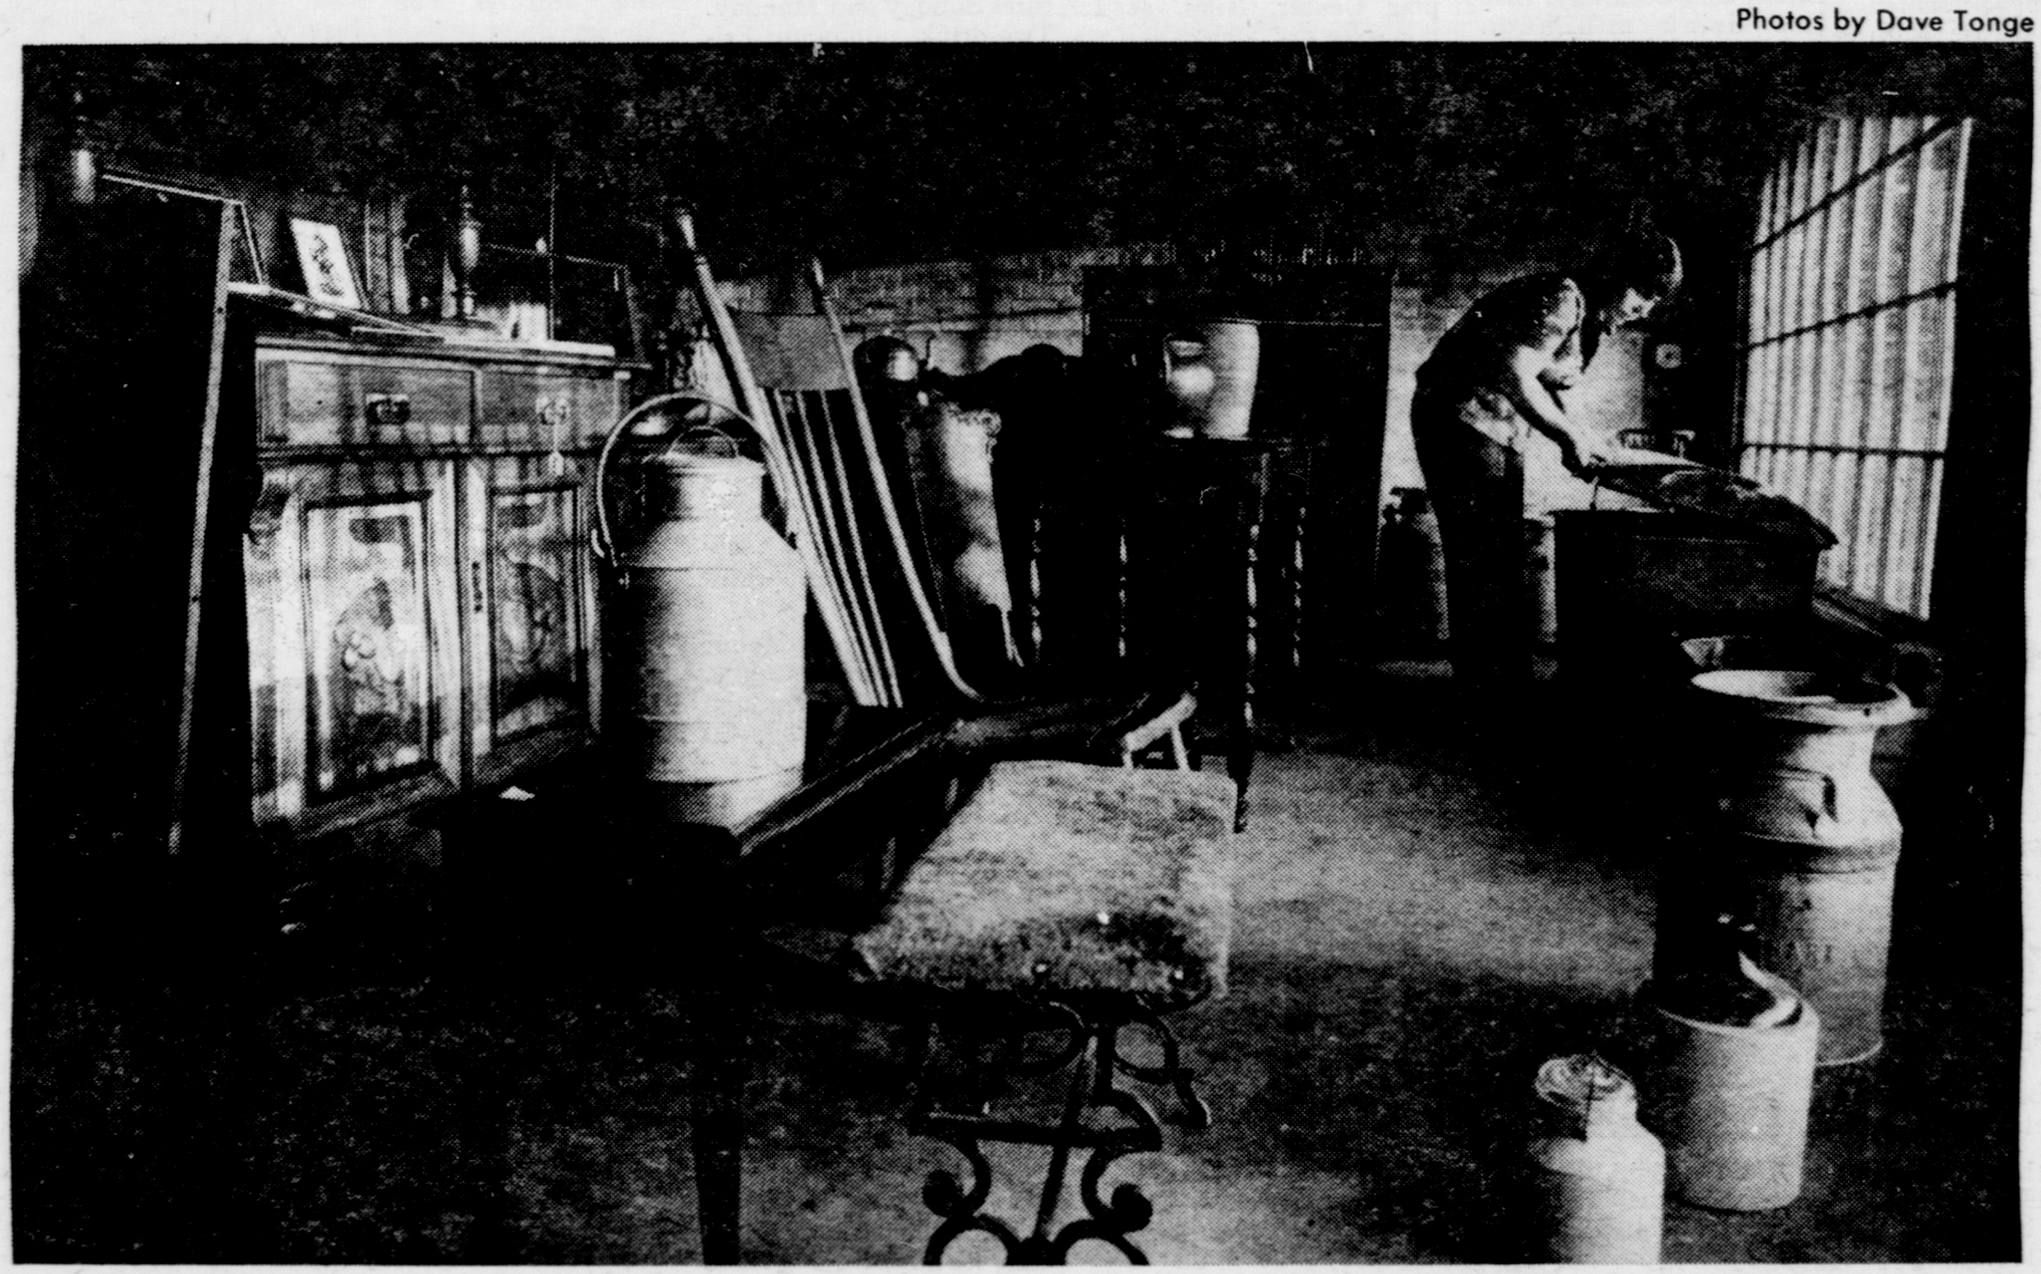

"This is like a hobby for me," she says.

The program begins at 8 p.m. in Webster Hall of the First Congregational Church of Des Plaines, 766 Graceland Ave. In addition to a film depicting the fashioning of silver in colonial America, Keneth Orstead of Des Plaines, an art teacher at Maine East High School will demonstrate how the art is taught today. There is no admission charge. 297-4912.

Junk may be antique to someone else

"If I sell somethin' for $10 then I go out and buy somethin' for $20. I sell things for so little a mark-up that I will bargain, but not much. My mark-up is maybe $30 on a piece for $295. I probably wouldn't make anything unless I sold the whole shop."

Open: Tuesday through Sunday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. May to December; other months, by chance.

Stone Cottage Antiques, west side of Rand Road, north of Cuba Road, Lake Zurich. Walk in the door of this small stone house and you will come face to face with a former English singing star. Tony Tripley, alias Tony Chase, who made Jack Jones — style hits in England, has switched to the antique business and has been selling in Lake Zurich for the last 1½ years.

Tripley is in business with partner Chuck Huege, a Des Plaines native, who trains horses when he's not antiquing. The two men specialize in English antiques, primarily furniture and four times a year make buying trips to London.

"In England there is so much around. Most people are brought up around old things and they know how to take care of them," Tripley says. "We only buy items that are in good condition and Americans can't believe they are antiques. To them anything off the farm is an antique."

Items in Stone Cottage were made anywhere from the mid-1700s to the mid-1800s, all in such good condition you'd be hard put to find a noticeable knick. They are things not ordinarily found in most antique stores — a chair table that can be used for sitting and eating at the same time; smoker's cabinets, a game table that converts into a desk. The most expensive item is a hand-carved oak bookcase with leaded stained glass doors selling for $1,200.

"This glass decanter comes from the Duke of Marlborough's estate in Jamaica. Lovely, isn't it?" Tripley says. "Once, but this was back in a shop I had in England, I had a bed slept in by George the Fifth."

English imports are popular with Tony Tripley at Stone Cottage Antiques.

The building itself is unusual — a small, two-room stone house that someone once built for his wife. The shop is uncluttered and attractively designed. Also on sale are Christmas decorations, made by Tripley from pine-cones and other natural material.

Open: Wednesday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Little Corner, 117 Bangs St., Wauconda. The house is as old as some of the items on sale inside, built in the 1870s by Justis Bangs, father of Wauconda. On the lawn a sign stands in contrast: "Est. 1966."

Inside, in what's known as the doll room, Lee Hoekje sits in a rocking chair, dressing a doll she holds in her lap. She looks up. "I always liked to play and dress dolls," she says.

Mrs. Hoekje's on a doll kick now. She has dolls from the 1800s, dolls up to $475. Shirley Temple dolls, Mr. Peanut dolls and even Ronald McDonald dolls. Her passion used to be coins and at times has been glassware and antique kitchen utensils.

"I buy whatever turns me on," she says.

She and her husband, Jim, have been in the antique business for the last 20 years. "We went to our first antique shop on our honeymoon in Ann Arbor," she reminisces. "It was dark and gloomy and a little old woman greeted us. We had $50 for our whole trip so we couldn't afford much. We found a battered copper cup for $1, bought it and ran out into the sunshine clutching our first antique.

"Later we passed a bookstore and on the shelves were identical copper cups, bright and shiny and $1," she says. "But our cup is still on proud display in our house. We never polished it up."

Mrs. Hoekje, who up until the last few months cooked on a wood-burning stove, says she buys her items from ordinary people "like those who are suddenly 65 and moving to Florida." She says nothing ever is too ugly because there will be someone who wants it.

No bargains in antiques now-a-days

"Antiques and collectibles . . . they are all a matter of viewpoint," she says.

Dolls are not the only items on sale at the Hoekjes' store. Silver and antique jewelry fill cases in the front room. One unusual piece is a Victorian mourning brooch, circa 1800, with the picture of the dead child and a lock of her hair.

Other rooms contain art glassware, patterned glass, some furniture and antique kitchen utensils and crockery. The items have spilled to the garage which holds a collection of original posters ranging from $20 to $100. Among the collection are World War I recruiting posters and those announcing Vaudeville acts.

The Hoekjes, who teach antique classes at Maine South High School, Park Ridge, have one special item they say is a prime collector's piece but not for sale.

"In the 30s my Dad started to collect moustache cups," says Hoekje. "One day a man in Detroit, who wanted a canary but couldn't afford it because it was the Depression, came up to my Dad. He said he'd give him Nathanial Webster's moustache cup if he would buy him a canary. He did. We even have the documentation."

The Robin's Nest, northeast corner of U.S. Rte. 12 and Ill. Rte. 176 on Frontage Road, Wauconda. Dee and Jack Wenborg, who opened their first shop eight years ago, got into the business by accident.

"We caught the disease of antique roaming from a friend," says Mrs. Wenborg. Her husband, a general contractor, retired four years ago and now devotes full time to the business.

"I'm now doing what I like to do, love to do and want to do," he says.

Their shop, a bright blue barn, is out in the country and shaded by an old settler's oak about 3 feet wide. Upstairs they sell antiques; downstairs Wenborg does refinishing, restoring and stripping. The barn, built sometime around 1900, belonged to the original estate of Justis Bangs.

The Wenborgs specialize in American furniture before 1900. For sale are items including blueberry pickers, a chimney cupboard, a Victorian Oriental desk made in 1875 and country pine furniture Mrs. Wenborg says "has a warmth about it people just can't find in furniture today."

In one corner of the shop is one-third of an American banquet table, made in 1810, which people would add to their regular table when they had guests. Recently the Wenborgs sold a "God Bless Our Home" sampler written in Polish.

Most of the Wenborg finds come from private collections within a 20-mile radius of Wauconda. Last year, when going through an estate in Oak Park, they discovered a diary written by a girl from Dunton (now Arlington Heights) during the Civil War and donated it to the Historical Society of Arlington Heights.

Today's furniture may not last 100 years

The Wenborgs say it is getting harder and harder to find good antiques and Wenborg is pessimistic that furniture made today will ever last 100 years.

"We are not a nation of savers and we never were," he says. "I guess, it's because everything was so easy to come by."

Open: Wednesday through Sunday, noon to 4 p.m.

Pennebaker Antiques, 5626 Broadway, Richmond. This weather-beaten blue frame house, just a side street off of U.S. Rte. 12, has red and white stars and stripes for curtains and is one of 18 shops in downtown Richmond.

Inside is a red-haired, blue-eyed widow who started selling antiques out of her living room one by one when she needed the money She says she tried waitressing for a while but decided she couldn't do it for the rest of her life.

Romilda Pennebaker (her friends call her Penny) says she specializes in dolls and "unusual things." Her hobby is making doll furniture from antique jewelry which is on display but not for sale.

"I like to work with dolls and fix them up," she says. "I had a doll from the Depression once. She had a wooden container and when you turned the spigot, she wet."

IRENE TAYLOR

Mrs. Pennebaker is cordial but not friendly. She invites you to browse around the shop, cluttered with collectible items including bottles, beer cans and some linens.

"I buy what I think I can sell," she says. "This is a business that changes everyday. You think you have what people want and then the next day they want something else."

Open: Daily, 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Booklet lists area antique shops

If you want to know where to look for antiques in northern Illinois, just ask Irene Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor, who lives in Arlington Heights, has found more than 250 antique shops and lists them in a guide that has become a bible for the collector. Her "Antique Shops," printed each year in April, can be found at shops and local bookstores for $1.25.

Besides listing addresses and hours, Mrs. Taylor has added some tidbits she's picked up in her search. She notes the store where Paul Newman once slept and the store she calls the "Forest Lawn of fighter planes." She also lists shop specialties such as nickelodeons, stained-glass windows and Victorian beds. A list of antique shows and flea markets are also included in the book.

The guide started as an art project. Mrs. Taylor, who's worked as an art director, keeps an old proofpress in her basement and one day just started to set the type.

"I wanted something to print and decided to print a list of antique shops," she says. "Actually, I wasn't an antique collector then."

Mrs. Taylor started with 300 copies a year and next year plans to print 4,000. Because of the amount of copies she omits hand-rolling the pages but still hand-sets the type.

Ratings bring home the advertising

"Bob Newhart," "Rhoda," and "Phyllis" — than losers "Texas Wheelers" and "Three For The Road" — says he really does not have a gripe about the system.

"There are certainly better ways to do it. I hardly think that the 1,200 families are very exact. But if it is the same for everyone then I guess it is all right," Tinker says.

On the other side of the coin, advertisers depend on the ratings. Whitlow said without the ratings, it would be like a shopper in a supermarket where all the labels have been removed.

Bob Buzogany of Proctor and Gamble, the company which makes everything from toothpaste to Pringles' Potato Chips, says advertisers usually have to go with preview ratings information when deciding to buy time for a program.

"But once the ratings are in there is always a review to determine if we want to stay with a show," he adds.

There are a lot of serious decisions made based on the ratings because Proctor and Gamble buys more advertising time and space than any other company in the nation.

"We usually take a hard look both at the shows we are sponsoring and also at the blocks of time we buy from the local stations," he says.

Even if the numbers are good, they might not be enough to save a show, some network officials say.

Whitlow even offered two programs, the horse-opera "Bonanza" and "Star Trek," as examples of shows that had good ratings but were dropped for other reasons.

"Both programs had good ratings but were dropped because production became so high that advertisers could not afford the costs," he said.

But in the end it is all the same, if the numbers aren't there the show won't go on.

Viewers favor movies, sports

by JOAN HANAUER

The national Nielsen ratings indicate that the television viewing public prefers watching almost anything this season except the regular schedule.

There remain some truly popular shows, of course, with "All in the Family" the national favorite.

But the network that led all the rest this week was ABC, and that was in part because its airing of the movie "Walking Tall." Not a television debut, incidentally, it took over the number two spot on the list with a 28.6 rating and a 46 share of the audience in its Sunday night time slot.

When NBC was the winner in recent weeks, it was the enormous interest and excitement generated by a whale of a World Series that put the network on top and, in fact, gives it a narrow edge over the other two for the first nine weeks of the new season.

CBS, whose programs occupied five of the top ten shows, still came in third in this week's ratings average. Helping to drag CBS down are the three CBS shows that came in dead last on the Nielsen list. All three — "Big Eddy," "Three for the Road" and "Beacon Hill" have been canceled.

Of the first ten shows on the Nielsen list, six were situation comedies and only one show was new — if you can call a spin-off such as "Phyllis" new. There's more comedy in the second ten, and the cops start to shoot their way onto the scene.

At first glance, which soon can turn to glassy stare, the audience seems to be voting for just those two categories — cops and comedy. But no one seems to realize that they have been offered little else except an occasional doctor.

Television movies are showing up respectably in the ratings, giving at least a boost for the revival of television theater. Aside from "Walking Tall," NBC's airing of "Sugarland Express" on Saturday night ranked 27th, with a 19.5 rating and a 33 share.

(United Press International)

The story behind a ratings victim

"You can try to change the show, but usually viewers will sample shows at the beginning of the year and it is very hard to get them back once they decide not to watch."

Hard indeed. The industry is seeing the largest number of early season cancellations in their history.

Tinker admits a cancellation is frustrating from a creative point of view.

"Sure you try to fight with the networks, you try to present the most persuasive case to get a show into a good time slot or keep away from cancellation. But what can you do, it's their theater," he adds.

"'I guess I really can't gripe," Tinker says. "But then maybe I have been in the bussiness too long."

Be a better parent and have fun too

by KAREN BLECHA

It is a fall afternoon on an Evanston street and a father and son are walking down the sidewalk. The boy notices that he and his Dad are being followed — by shadows.

The conversation goes something like this:

"Dad, what's a shadow?"

"It happens when something like your body or my body gets in between the sun and the ground. Can you step on my shadow? I can step on yours."

And the two move on, playing the game and laughing. Two important things have happened; the father has spent some happy time alone with his child and he has taught the boy something new about the world around him. Without any special effort and without any props.

The scene is from a new Channel 11-WTTW series for parents, with parents and about parenting. The show is called "Look At Me!" — because that's what a child wants his parents most to do — and premiers Friday at 9:30 p.m.

"Look At Me!" is a program about ways to help kids grow smarter and happier and shows parents and young children doing things together that are fun for everyone — and good for the kids besides.

"This is not a show for super-mothers or super-fathers," says Thea Flaum, producer-writer who makes her television debut in the series. "It's for real people who are real parents — who get tired and angry and often are too busy to play.

"Parents are really their kids' first, and best, teachers" she adds. "If you try some of the things you see on the shows, your kids will become a little smarter and you'll find some new ways to enjoy being a parent."

The show concentrates on children under seven, the age where children learn more and learn it faster than they ever will again in their lives. About 60 per cent of the film deals with intellectual development and how a parent can lay a good foundation for learning math, language and how to think.

In one segment four-year-old Allison discovers how wind moves a toy sailboat in the bathtub. In another four-year-old Adam and his father make and fly paper airplanes and learn some basic aerodynamics.

The rest of the show concerns emotional development, or parents helping their kids learn to like themselves.

"Letting a child help with the dusting or the laundry, letting big brothers make a picture, a toy for the baby, teaching a toddler to make his own peanut butter and jelly sandwiches — all these things tell him 'the way you do it is all right,'" says Ms. Flaum.

The series is filmed on location in the Chicago area and takes you to shopping centers, restaurants, laundromats, supermarkets and into the homes of real people. Real parents and children, from all socioeconomic levels, are used to make the show realistic.

"Picking the people — that was the hardest thing to do," says Ms. Flaum. "We decided to do nothing dishonest. If there is a father and two children in a segment, then those are his two children."

So far six shows of the series have been filmed funded by a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health. They will be repeated the next 18 weeks on Channel 11 on Friday nights and at 1:30 p.m. Sundays. The show will also be broadcast nationwide on public TV next year.

The idea for the program came from a Northfield group, Parents As Resources, which helps parents build more effective parent-child relationships. Currently WTTW and Parents as Resources are trying to get funding for nine more shows which would concentrate on helping infants to learn.

Ms. Flaum says the series centers on young children, rather than adolescents, because they are "still malleable." She says the program was not done because parents are doing a bad job with their children.

"We're trying to capitalize on what they are doing already," she says. "To help them do it better and enjoy it a little more."

'That's Entertainment!' to air Tuesday on CBS

"That's Entertainment!," one of the glittering box-office hits of the past year featuring scenes from nearly 100 musical movie classics, will be broadcast as a three-hour special presentation at 7 p.m. Tuesday on CBS.

The MGM motion picture, representing at least a quarter of a billion dollars worth of film production of the past and featuring the music of some of the greatest song writers of the century, is narrated by major stars.

Among the magical moments in "That's Entertainment!" are scenes from pictures that have never been released to television and many that have not been shown in theaters for several decades.

TV only place for an actor: Curtis

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — It's a curious thing about Hollywood. It takes a kid with little education, and makes him or her a big star. Over the years, by hobnobbing with the important people, that kid acquires a certain polish. After enough years, the kid considers himself or herself a philosopher.

Tony Curtis is Exhibit A. When he started, back in '49, he had been through the war and had barely made it in high school. He had been a tough teenager, narrowly escaping problems with the law. Hollywood took Bernie Schwartz, the New York hoodlum-elect, and made him Tony Curtis, idol of millions.

A quarter of a century later, as one of Hollywood's veterans, he is urbane, sophisticated and given to philosophical observations. He also has a new series, "McCoy," now part of the NBC Sunday Mystery Movie group.

He and his current wife, Leslie, make their home in London, in a town house on Chester Square. That's a long way from the East Side of New York. And McCoy is an equally long way from the old days as a movie star.

He is not one to look back with nostalgia to the life he once led. To Curtis, the present is exciting.

"I am leading a unique and full and wonderful existence," he says "I couldn't be having a better time."

He was 22 when Universal signed him, and stuck him in a movie called "The Prince Who Was a Thief." As he remembers it, it cost $220,000 and made $2.5 million. Naturally, that was enough for the studio to make him a star.

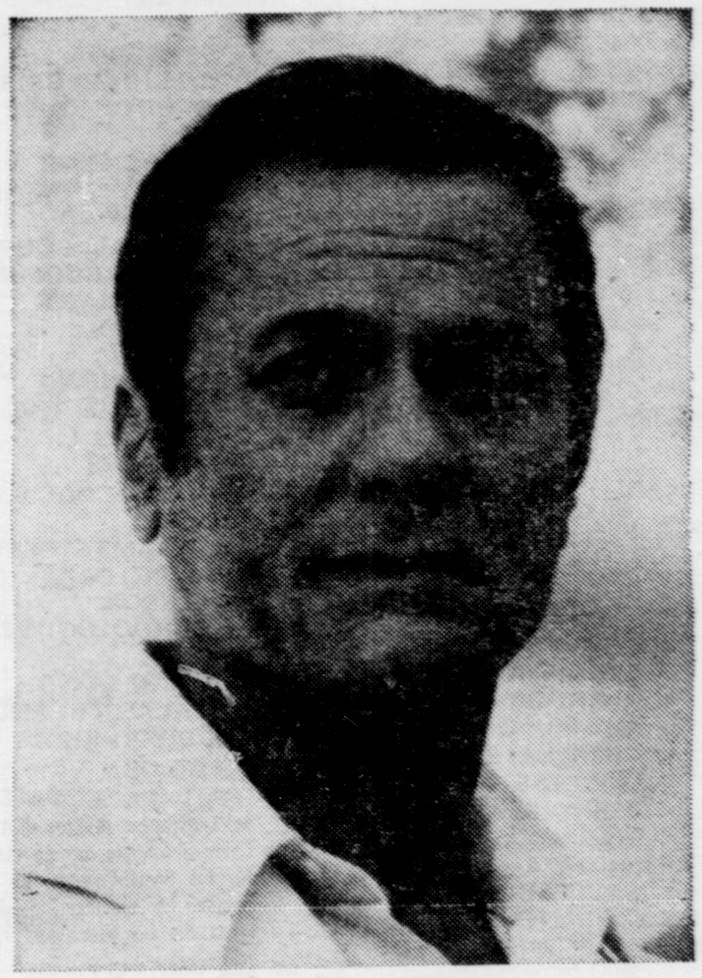

They built him up as a young male sex symbol. There were always reporters and photographers around his house. He remembers that when TV first came in, photographers, on orders from the studio heads, would cover his TV set in some way so it didn't show in the pictures. That was when Hollywood's studios hoped that TV would go away.

Now Curtis feels that television is the only place for an actor to be.

"There's no other game in town any more," he says. "Anybody who says different doesn't know what he's talking about."

He thinks television is today's entertainment.

"I think TV today is excellent," he says. "McCloud is good, so is Kojak, so are a lot of them. Each show has its own number, its own look, its own sense."

TONY CURTIS

He lets his children — he has custody of five of his six children, by three marriages — watch whatever they want.

But he says there is one flaw on television.

"There is no really beautiful, slinky girl on TV," he says. "All they give us on TV are the ugs. There is a lack of sophistication — maybe it just hasn't been tried right. But I wonder why a woman cannot be a woman on TV? There are too many man-oriented shows."

His own show happened when, a year ago, he got a letter in London from Dean Hargrove in Hollywood. Hargrove enclosed the McCoy script. Would Tony consider doing it?

"I liked it," Curtis says, "but I thought I had another commitment, so I passed. NBC said they would wait with it until I was ready to do it. That perked up my interest. So I did it.

"It was a chance to develop an entirely new character. It's growing as we're going."

Curtis gets angry at suggestions that he is doing TV because he can no longer get movie parts. He says that argument has no validity, because he says he can do movies and cites his starring role in last year's "Lepke." But he admits that today's features are being made for the younger age group, and good parts "for a man my age" are hard to come by.

This is his second series. His first was the English-made The Persuaders, with Roger Moore, which has been a hit everywhere but here.

"There's no such thing as failure," he says, philosophically. "If something doesn't work, you try something else, that's all."

And he isn't looking backward, to his Hollywood heyday.

Could you please print a picture of Olivia Newton-John and tell me how many hit songs she has made?
A.L.H.

Olivia, who was born in Cambridge, England and reared in Australia, has earned more music awards in 1974 than any other female vocalist. Among these awards are: two Grammys, four American Music Awards and two Country Music Association Awards.

She is the first female vocalist to achieve three successive Number One records on the pop charts: "If You Love Me," "I Honestly Love You" and "Have You Never Been Mellow?" In addition, she has won seven gold records, two platinum awards and her live performances consistently draw enthusiastic crowds.

Olivia, who is the granddaughter of Nobel Prize-winning physicist Max Born, began singing in her early teens. Her career started in England, and after a series of several hits, she toured Europe.

In 1973, she won worldwide fame, after receiving her first Grammy Award as Best Country Vocalist with the song, "Let Me Be There."

Olivia, you may be interested to know, has been signed to star in her own hour-long musical variety special on ABC, so keep checking your local listings.

"Valley Forge," NBC's Dec. 3 Hall of Fame special, has been recommended for viewing by the National Education Association, the professional group that represents primary and secondary school teachers. The play dramatizes Gen. George Washington's qualities of leadership in his struggle with the British Army during the freezing winter of 1777-78.

Along with the cancellation of "Beacon Hill," CBS has announced the Dec. 7 demise of "Three for the Road."

Shelby Lyman on chess

Though women are grossly underrepresented in the chess world, feminists did score a major breakthrough in Medieval Europe. A transformation of gender occured on the chessboard. The "king's" counselor, the "ferz," was renamed by the Europeans: the "vierge," with its trifold connotations of virgin, lady and queen.

Perhaps because chess in Europe symbolized a royal court rather than a battlefield, the notion and name "queen" stuck and the most powerful piece on the board thus became a female.

Hint and Explanation for Diagram 1: Black has erred. He has squandered time with the debilitating move of his KBP (King bishop pawn) and a passive move of his bishop. White may now at least win a pawn immediately. Do you see why and how?

James Tarjan is another one of America's best young players. Though not long out of the junior ranks, he has for years excited comment with his original attacking ideas.

In the last U.S. Championship, perhaps the strongest ever, he broke even in the 13 games he played. But this modest 6½-6½ score tied him for sixth place with grandmasters Lombardy and Bisguier, and left him only one half point behind 1973 interzonalists GMS Byrne and Reshevsky.

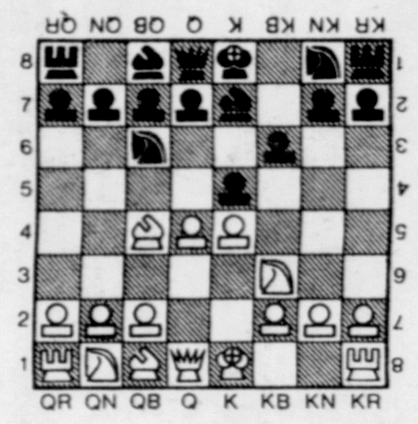

We see below a game Tarjan won in the 1974 Hollywood Tournament, in which he took first place.

After an irregular opening and some indecisive middle game moves, Strauss has snatched a pawn. But Tarjan has a sharp kingside move which will regain the pawn and maintain a strong attack in Diagram 2. Do you see it?

Tarjan played 23. B-R6!, and gained his breakthrough. (Notice black may not play 23. . . . PxB, because of 24. Q-N4 check and 25 mate.)

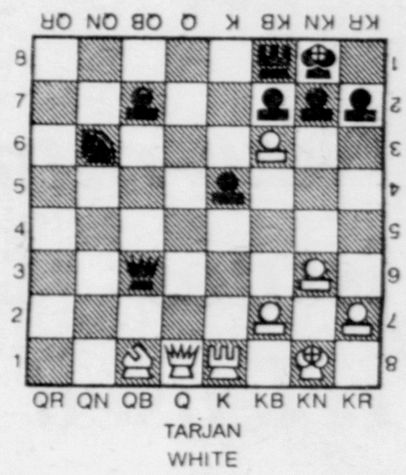

SOLVE-IT

(Diagram 1)

White moves and wins. Solution below.

(Diagram 2)

Position after black's 22. . . QP x KP.

Tarjan (White)	Strauss (Black)
1. P-QB4	P-K4	18. N-B5	NxN
2. N-QB3	N-KB3	19. PxN	B-B3
3. N-B3	N-B3	20. BxB	QxB
4. P-K4	B-N5	21. P-B6	QxP
5. P-Q3	P-Q3	22. PxKP	PxKP
6. P-KN3	P-QR3	23. B-R6!	N-Q4
7. B-N2	P-QN4	24. BxP	R-R1
8. PxP	PxP	25. R-KB1	Q-Q4
9. O-O	BxN	26. Q-R5	N-K2
10. PxB	O-O	27. PxN	KxB
11. P-Q4	N-Q2	28. Q-N5 check	K-R1
12. P-QR4	PxP	29. Q-B6 check	K-N1
13. RxP	B-QR3	30. Q-QB6	Resigns
14. R-K1	N-N3
15. R-R2	B-N4
16. RxR	QxR
17. N-R4	N-K2

Today's solution to SOLVE-IT: White may simply play 1. PxP, and black must decline recapture and lose the pawn. (1. . . . PxP would be brutally met by 2. Q-Q5, etc., and 1. . . . NxP by 2. NxN and the same.)

NASA films offered free at Adler

Films from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) are offered free to the public Saturdays at 12:15 p.m. at the Adler Planetarium, Chicago.

The film schedule is as follows: "4 RPMS — Earth View," Nov. 15; "Jupiter Odyssey," Nov. 22; "Hey Houston . . . We've Got A Problem," Nov. 29; "New View of Space," Dec. 6; and "The Time of Apollo," Dec. 13.

Also at the Planetarium is a lunar rock sample believed to be about 4 billion years old, on display through Nov. 30. The rock weighs 3½ ounces and will be exhibit on the Hall of Space Exploration on the main level.

The rock was brought back by astronauts on the Apollo II flight. According to NASA, it is thought to be part of the moon's crust.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

You can have a lot of fun with the weak two bids in all suits except clubs and the artificial two-club opening to cover all forcing two bids plus 23-24 and 27-28 point notrumps.

You open two notrump with 21-22 and three notrump with 25-26 point notrumpers.

You need two artificial responses and can use more if you wish. Two diamonds should be reserved for very bad hands and should only be forcing to one trick below game. Two hearts should be a catch-all to say responder had enough for game, but no definite bid he wants to make. Other responses should be specific and reasonably normal.

We recommended earlier this week to use two notrump to cover all notrump hands and suit responses of two spades or three in any other suit to guarantee at least a five-card suit and at least two of the four tops honors.

Today's hand is a trap in any system. South has game in his own hand, North has a sound opening bid of his own but there is no slam. Here's how it is bid in the methods we have shown. The two-club opening is artificial and forcing. The two-spade response and three-diamond rebid are normal as is North's three-spade call.

South's jump to five clubs says I can make game, but I am afriad of the heart suit. North is also and merely bids five diamonds.

for health
Properly humidified air can help to repel upper respiratory ailments aggravated by too-dry air. In many cases, where excessive dryness has been diagnosed as the cause of these aggravations, doctors have prescribed humidification Ask your doctor for his recommendations.

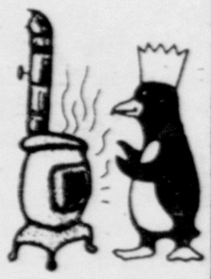

for protection
Dry, heated air draws moisture from everything in your home - woodwork, furnishings, books, the piano or organ. It can cause walls and ceilings to crack, and make fabrics and carpeting wear out too fast. Proper humidification provides the protection that's needed.

IN GIVING THANKS

HOSKINS TALKS TURKEY . . .

ALL 1975 MODELS MUST GO THIS WEEKEND . . . HELP US, HELP YOU!

Not many people realize that our first Thanksgiving in 1621 was not a celebration of a bountiful harvest. Our Pilgrim Fathers experienced a very lean harvest that year and had suffered many hardships. Their spirits were low, but rather than giving up in bitterness, they set aside a special day to rejoice in their meager harvest and to give thanks that they had made it for another year. America was created with that kind of determination...the determination that no matter how difficult the present might be, we still had a lot to be thankful for and we would go on to build a better future. Today, 354 years after our first Thanksgiving, we are the strongest, most powerful and richest nation the world has ever seen. We have our problems, we have difficulties and have experienced great crises, but the determination our forefathers had lives on in us. We still have a lot to be thankful for.
